Project Communi-Link presented

By PAT GROJEAN

Project Communi-Link, a process for community - wide planning, was presented to area teachers, counselors and administrators of adult education in the Bootheel public school systems Friday and Saturday in the library of Sikeston High School.

The workshop, presented by Colorado State University of Ft. Collins, Colo., was attended by about 60 people, and ran from 6 to 10 p.m. Friday and 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Saturday.

Elvin Long of Jefferson City, director of adult education for the state of Missouri, said the State Department of Education coordinated the workshop with the Sikeston school system and Colorado State University. Bill Sikes of Sikeston, adult education supervisor, was in charge of coordinating the program in Sikeston.

Communi-Link is a multi-state education project designed to help communities and states plan and implement comprehensive adult education and community improvement programs. It encourages the development and enhancement of communication linkages necessary for communities to identify problems, assess resources and mobilize resources to meet local needs.

At the workshop, educators took up new roles as citizens, in the community of Microville. Microville is a simulated community game of Communi -Link to help teach people how to develop a community program.

The people attending are divided into groups of five or six which form councils called by the mayor of Microville. The councils each act independently and go through the process of planning a community program.

The different steps which must be followed are writing a philosophy, determining the strategy to find out needs, going out and finding the wants and needs, developing objectives and implementing a program.

After each step, the councils evaluated themselves as to how well they did.

All objectives and philosophies and other work done by the councils were typed up and given to the participants, so they would have something to guide them as they go out to develop a community program.

Roger Martinez Jr., a CSU staff member, said Communi-Link has been presented to 5,000 to 6,000 people throughout the nation. The project serves 14 states, but there is a national diffusion program to acquaint areas outside the 14 states with the concepts and acticities of Communi-Link.

Stafford Thompson of Jefferson City, a supervisor of adult education in Missouri, helped Long co-ordinate the program. Thompson formerly taught adult education in Sikeston.

Other CSU staffers, besides Martinez, were Connie Tindel and Tom Sork.

Communi-Link is a federally funded program.

For procrastination week

Sorry we're late

By RON PORTER

So much to do; so little done-- Cecil Rhodes.

Some people have a perfect genius for doing nothing, and doing it assiduously-- Haliburton.

I'll do it tomorrow-- Ron Porter.

Last week was National Procrastination Week, created in honor of those of us who have better things to do than the things we should be doing.

After all, who wants to work in the garden when there's a baseball game on television, or later in the year, rake the leaves when you could be watching football? Just tell the wife you'll do it next weekend, when the games aren't as good...

In keeping with the spirit of the occasion, we offer this list of champion procrastinators:

Perhaps the all- time champion award should go to a Chinese religious leader who, according to legend was born about 70 years after he was conceived. Sorry, we meant to look up his name, but we just kept putting it off.

In the runner- up position are two Mexicans, Octavio Guillen and Adriana Martinze, who were married in June 1969, following a 67-year engagement.

Crowding up behind them is Shirali Mislimov, a Russian who claims to be 168 years old. He's included in our list because, not since Methuselah, has anyone put off dying so determinedly.

Finally, we include Richard Nixon, who ran for the presidency in 1960, but waited eight years before taking office.

People aren't the only procrastinators. Whole institutions can drag their heels, also.

For instance, in the fifth century B.C., Democritus, a Greek, postulated the atomic structure of matter. It wasn't until almost 2,500 years later that anyone in the scientific community realized Democritus wasn't as dumb as he sounded.

Back packs missing

Two back packs valued at $35 were discovered missing at 1 p.m. Sunday from the storage room of an apartment building at 819 Davis Road, according to police.

The back packs belonged to Tim Ludwig, who discovered they were missing when he and his wife Teresa went to the storage room to get some items to take on an outing to Big Oak Tree State Park near East Prairie and discovered the room had been broken into.

Other items in the room, including golf clubs and fishing gear, were not disturbed, according to Ludwig.

Tools valued at $30 were taken between 6 p.m. Friday and 6 a.m. Saturday, from a truck owned by James Smith while parked at his home at 338 Crowe St. The tool set was described as a three-eighth to seven- eighth inch drive socket set.

Larry White of Benton Route One told police that a steroe set was stolen from his car between 7:30 and 9:30 p.m. Sunday while it was parked in front of Malone Theatre, 107 W. Malone Ave. No value was given for the stereo.

Topics will include new solid waste management legislation and planning, financing a solid waste management system and how to operate a sanitary landfill.

The Missouri Division of Health and the Bootheel Regional Planning Commission are sponsoring the conference.

SeMo area rivers close to flooding

CAIRO, Ill. — Farmers and rivermen are still watching for a rapid rise of the Ohio and Mississippi Rivers as a result of heavy weekend rains, according to Haydn Fox, meteorologist in charge of the Cairo station of the U. S. Weather Bureau.

Rivers in the St. Louis area, swollen by the heavy rains, overflowed their banks during the weekend, forcing the closing of some streets and roads and the riverfront area downtown.

According to Fox, Cape Girardeau, Mo., is hurting the most this morning with a flood stage reading 36.7 feet up 1.7 feet since the weekend. Forecast for Cape Girardeau for Tuesday is a reading of 37.9; Wednesday, 38.5; and Thursday, 39.0; with the crest on March 17 reaching 39.5 feet.

The gauge at Cairo, which is located two and one-half miles from the confluence of the Mississippi and Ohio rivers on the Ohio, last Tuesday had a reading of 16.7 feet and today read 43.8.

Fox said Cairo has had the fastest rise since March 6 with Brookport, Ill., second with a rise of 16 feet and St. Louis, Mo., third, rising 17.2 since March 6.

The Weather Bureau had originally forcast a 41- foot crest at the Cairo gauge to come Wednesday.

But that estimate, like the others, does not include the expected rainfall which has been predicted for Wednesday and Thursday, Fox said. The crest could be around the 45-foot mark, he said.

For Cape Girardeau, the National Weather Service office predicted the river would crest at 36 feet by Wednesday — four feet above the 32- foot flood stage.

The Mississippi is expected to reach flood stage at Cairo early this week. A crest of 43.15 feet is forecast for Thursday, more than three feet above Cairo's 40-foot flood stage.

According to Fox, the flooding is being caused mostly by rainwater, not by melting snow.

New Madrid had a reading today of 31.6, a rise of 2.2 feet since the weekend, with the Mississippi rising all the way to St. Louis by a foot or more. The Ohio is also rising, even past Louisville, by a foot and a half. Predicted for New Madrid on Tuesday is a reading of 33.5; Wednesday, 35.0; and Thursday, 36.0; with the crest reaching 37.5 feet on March 18.

The crest on the Ohio at Paducah, Ky., is 36 feet, staying below the 39 foot flood stage.

Eagleton to keynote

U.S. Sen. Thomas Eagleton of Missouri will be the Keynote Speaker for the 10th District Bootheel Democratic Rally, April 27 at the Ramada Inn.

Democrats from all over the state are expected to attend, according to State Rep. C.F. Cline of Sikeston. In the past, the rally was held only in election years. Plans are to make it an annual event, Cline said.

Sikeston Mayor Frank Ferrell said it will be open to the public. Tickets, costing $10, will be available from chairmen of county committees in about two weeks.

He said other guests at the rally will include U.S. Rep. Bill Burlison of Cape Girardeau, Secretary of State James C. Kirkpatrick, of Windsor, State Treasurer James Spainhower, of Marshall, President Pro Temp of the State Senate William Cason of Clinton, and Speaker of the House Richard Rabbit of St. Louis.

Weather Watch begins

The Sikeston Weather Watch program went into action Saturday under a new format that will hopefully provide better weather protection for the city, according to Gerald Howard, director of the Sikeston Civil Defense System.

The new weather watch program uses police, auxiliary police and firemen as spotters instead of regular citizens.

Howard said the watch will be set up whenever a severe weather warning is issued for the Sikeston area. Watchers will go to six different areas of Sikeston, providing coverage for the whole town. If a severe storm is spotted, local radio stations will be notified so they can warn the public, Howard said. He added that April, May and June are the worst months for storms in the Sikeston area.

Although Saturday's watch worked well, Howard said problems remain to be ironed out. One problem was that there was too much radio traffic, he said.

Members of the watch will meet tonight at the city administrative building to try to work out the difficulties.

For those of us living closely with agribusiness in this area, it is interesting to note that Dr. George V. Mann of the Department of Biochemistry, Vanderbilt University School of Medicine, discussing diet and health, has said, "... I feel intensely that the 'other side' of the diet- heart controversy has not been adequately heard ..." Dr. Mann was critical of the relentless campaign damning meat, eggs and milk "... with puny evidence bucked up by dramatic Madison Avenue techniques."

Dr. Mann was also critical of segments of the food industry which he feels have not responded as they should: "I do not know who is responsible for the possum tactics of those assaulted industries, but I know as a nutritionist that the industry is allowing a few adventurists in science ... to sack the basis for the best diet in human history. One day -- too late, I fear -- this chapter in human absurdity will be written out." Dr. Mann went on to recommend strongly "suitable mechanisms" for testing prevailing hupotheses having to do with diet and heart disease.

Dr. Mann call for national and international research programs that can one day find answers to the relationship between diet and health. And surely these answers can help convince normal people the importance of enjoying, in moderation, the abundance of basic foods that modern agriculture has made available to U. S. citizens and the world.

Everyone travels these days. We're constantly off to more exotic corners of the world, and soon maybe the moon. One of the frequent problems is getting your body to adjust to abrupt time changes, and the various types of food we all insist on trying. Well, how would you feel if your stomach ignored your feelings and let you suffer while it continued shoveling in more tacos moussaka, roast suckling pig, hot tamales ... The solution: chose a gentle effective chewing gum antacid that acts quickly and keeps you on the move. And the moral: Be fair to your stomach and it will be fair to you.

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

The auto is now a bigger cause of mortality among deer than people. It is estimated that 120,000 deer and 1,200 other big game animals are killed in highway traffic mishaps each year. That's more than twice the toll of human lives.

Your fingernails are made of the same kind of material as your hair. So are the hoofs of animals, the claws of birds, and the scales of snakes.

People are more likely to be fatally violent against themselves than anyone else. A 30-year study in Cleveland found that 4,065 persons died by homicide during that time and an additional 5,807 committed suicide. But during those three decades the homicide rate rose by more than 500 per cent, from 7 per hundred thousand people in 1940 to 38 per hundred thousand in 1970.

The letter, obviously written by an illiterate salesman: "Dear Boss: I seen this outfit which they ain't never bought a dime's worth of nothing from us and I sole them a couple hundred thousand dollars worth of guds. I am now going to Chawgo."

Two days later a second letter arrived at the home office: "I cum hear and I sole them half a milyon," it said. Both letters were posted on the bulletin board with a note appended by the company president: "We been spendin too much time hear trying to spel, instead of trying to sel. Let's watch those sails. Drug experts in law enforcement, treatment and rehabilitation can argue with graphs that their progress would look better if only they had more funding. Unfortunately, graphs on the effects of education (those that exist— are written in the budding language of psychometrics, unintelligible to all but a few. If we weren't preoccupied with quick provable results, we might see that our task is not so much to catch and treat, but to prevent.

Richard Earle, the new President of the National Coordinating Council on Drug Education, testified to the above thesis in a hearing on national drug policy before the Democratic Party Platform Committee. He stated the facts clearly: "It costs the Federal Government $18,750 to make each narcotics arrest (excluding state and local costs) and approximately $8,500 per year to rehabilitate an addict; or $1,500 to maintain him on methadone. But to prevent him from ever becoming an addict, to educate and arm him against drug temptation, we spend a comparative pittance: about 26 cents per capita per year, to reach children 12 years old and under."

Mr. Earle pointed out that amplified drug education should first be directed toward the school administration and curriculum advisors. Schools should learn and then implement the thought that drugology is not a course, but an incidental part of many courses.

But it was not just for improved education in the schools that Earle made his plea. Drug problems cannot be graphically proven to begin in the home; yet the solutions are within the family. "And so, that is where the money and dedication and planning must be focused."

ADVERTISING....WHAT IS IT?

THE FOLLOWING WORDS of wisdom come from Fairfax M. Cone, chairman of the executive committee, Foote, Cone & Belding, Chicago.

Advertising is the business, or the art, if you please, of telling someone something that should be important to him. It is a substitute for talking to someone.

It is the primary requirement of advertising to be clear, clear as to exactly waht the proposition is.

If it isn't clear, and clear at a glance or a whisper, very few people will take the time or the effort to try to figure it out.

The second essential of advertising is that what must be clear must also be important. The proposition must have value.

Third, the proposition (the promise) that is both clear and important must also have a personal appeal. It should be beamed at its logical prospects; no one else matters.

Fourth, the distinction in good advertising expresses the personality of the advertisers; for a promise is only as good as its maker.

Finally, a good advertisement demands action It asks for an order, or it exacts a mental pledge.

Altogether these things define a desirable advertisement as one that will command attention but never be offensive.

It will be reasonable, but never dull.

It will be original, but never self- conscious.

It will be imaginative, but never misleading.

And because of what it is and what it is not, a properly prepared advertisement will always be convincing and it will make people act.

This, incidentally, is all that I know about advertising.

DON'T MARCH BACKWARD

A curious transition has been taking place in both public and private attitudes toward our way of life in the United States. Under the guise of improving physical health, quality of life and the environment in which we live, a drive is on to reduce the availability or utilization of the very things that for centuries were considered the ultimate goals of a better life. Even the abundance of good food is now considered the ultimate goals of a better life.

This drive toward regression is bound, sooner or later, either through regulation or other forms of coercion, to cause a sort of "hardening of the arteries" of the production and marketing system that heretofore has operated on the traditional premise that people will demand more and better things in the future. Normal, healthy people are told, for example, that they should eliminate certain items from their diet in anticipation of heart attacks or some other disability -- although there is abundant scientific evidence that such sacrifice is neither necessary nor likely heathful. In an effort to help counteract rising confusion over good -- what to eat -- the food industry is launching a long- range program to encourage people to eat normally of the four basic food groups -- meat, fish and poultry; fruits and vegetables; dairy products; and breads and cerals. The National Dairy Council is one of the research and educational organizations charged with the task of helping to present the nutrition story in which dairy organizations charged with the task of helping to presen the nutrition story in which dairy products have an important place. Normally healthy people need milk and milk products just as they need the other foods that make up a balanced diet.

It is hard to see how the quality of life or the health of the individual can be improved by turning away from the bounty that has been given to us by the most efficient food production and marketing system ever known. In food, as in everything else, a healthy and wholesome future lies in the wise use of that which science and technology have given to us.

INDUSTRY ADOPTS GUIDELINES FOR CHILDREN'S TV

Guidelines for television advertising to children have been adopted by the Association of National Advertisers to help stimulate high standards of advertising and eliminate practices which might be even remotely considered distasteful, misleading or unduly "high-pressure."

The guidelines are based on the following four principles:

Since young children have limited capabilities for discerning the credibility of what they see, they pose a special responsibility for advertisers and broadcasters alike to protect them from their own susceptibilities.

Recognizing that children are limited in their ability to distinguish between fact and fantasy, care should be taken not to stimulate (directly or by implication) unreasonable expectations of performance.

Because of the special nature of the children's audience, extra care should be taken to communicate product information in a truthful and tasteful manner.

Advertising should help develop social standards that are generally regarded as positive and beneficial.

STOP BEING FUNNY

The old saying that "people are funny" was never truer than it is today. Never were there so many millions asking for public charity doled out to them under a pleasing variety of titles. We overlook the fact that government has no money to give that it does not first take from its citizens in taxes, or higher and higher public debt. The latter today requires the payment of over $20 billion a year in interest charges alone.

No matter what the government, federal, state or local is giving you, don't think you are not paying for it. We are paying for exhorbitant government spending and debt in inflated prices and the reduced value and buying power of the dollar. We are paying for it in everything we eat, wear and use. The amount of taxes withheld from the average income would have paid for a home not so long ago. What used to be put into savings, now goes to the tax collector, and the one who earned it never sees it.

The people will have to stop being "funny" if they wish to save their bacon in the U.S. Your savings and your government are being destroyed by those who put politics ahead of fiscal responsibility.

LEARN FROM EXPERIENCE

Theories are interesting and can be useful for all manner of human endeavor. In the ancient world, theories were dreamed up and accepted or rejected without much concern with how they worked out in practical experience. The essence of the so- called "scientific method," which is a rather recent human invention, was to check theories against experiments and experience to see if they were valid.

Now we seem to be drifting backward into the errors of the ancient world and of the Middle Ages, when facts were ignored in favor of theories no matter how strongly experience proved the facts to be in error. Marxism- communism- socialism and all their off- shoots claim to be scientific, but experience proves the opposite. They claim that the theories of Marx are the answer to hunger, poverty and disease.

Marx's theories have been expounded and tested for more than 100 years, but it is the Marxist- communist- socialist governments whose people continue to go hungry, as the false theories of Marx turn food- exporting nations into dull tyrannies which must import food from capitalist farmers.

Good working people of Republic USA have never fallen for the Marxist promises, but they have been betrayed by Marx- oriented leaders, especially those in politics and education. Working people are at last overcoming apathy and trying to turn the tide against crime, communism and inflation, all of which feed on each other and endanger the life of our Republic. We must win this battle. HLH

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Finally Free:
Hoffa's Power Drive Is Smashed

By Victor Riesel

WASHINGTON-- It is the duty, nature and joy of this craft to plug the loopholes of history. So the other day, using a carefully guarded, unlisted number, I telephoned William Leonard Tuab, who fell on his head when he was five, recovered sufficiently to be called an expert international confidence man, and almost flew James Hoffa into Hanoi to pick up a chartered planeload of war prisoners.

A nice lady answered. I asked for "Bill." She checked. Mr. Taub is in Florida, said she in a tone which insinuated--- isn't everybody? I inquired whether Bill had seen Hanoi's Le Duc Tho recently. She just didn't know.

Further pursuit elsewhere revealed there are those who believe William Taub had seen another "snowbird" (Floridian for refugee from winter storms)-- in this case, Jimmy Hoffa.

And why not? Bill Taub is a "Park Avenue" promoter claiming friendship with Presidents, princes and popes. And Jimmy Hoffa is now free of the U.S. Board of Parole. He need not report to his probation officer. He can do anything he wishes, ex- convict or not, except "engage in direct or indirecet management of any labor organization prior to March 6, 1980."

He is in the real estate business in New Jersey and Michigan and owns Florida property. He has surveyed Pennsylvania coal fields seeking investments. He has been approached by truck operators seeking him as a partner, according to some of his friends.

But he has said he is unhappy making money. He wants push- button power. He needs the adulation of the roaring throng such as at his 60th birthday party last month.

For weeks now he has brooded and conferred with heads of three law firms. He has said publicly he will launch a drive inside the Teamsters for a return to power. And he has said publicly he wouldn't disturb the incumbent president Frank Fitzsimmons.

He has been told off by Attorney General Richard Kleindienst. The President's restrictions on Hoffa's activities in or near labor "are not negotiable." And the "government will move quickly to enforce all aspects of the conditional commutation in the event that Mr. Hoffa does not abide by the conditions."

The Attorney General has the power to remand Hoffa immediately to any federal penitentiary he (Kleindienst) chooses if Hoffa truly chooses to run a labor organization again.

So it appears Hoffa's parole board docket is closed. This is a long way from the days he apprenticed in leadership under Leon Trotsky's American theoretican Farrell Dobbs in Minneapolis during the '30s.

It is a long way from the days when his approval was needed for multi- million- dollar loans from the billion- dollar Teamsters Central States, Southeast and Southwest Areas Pension Fund, now being probed by a District of Columbia grand jury and a special Internal Revenue Service task force.

With Hoffa's docket closed and some of his gruesomely tough Mafia friends on the outside looking in hungrily, the nation's attention now must swing to the Teamsters and its now fully powerful general president Frank Fitzsimmons. Fitz, as President Nixon and virtually all of us call him, is a long way from his bus- driving days.

Quietly he outmaneuvered the supercharged Hoffa. Fitz now has virtually unanimous support of the 15- man Teamsters International Executive Board.

Not only has he "strategized" to appoint new- breed university men to this board, he has purged some of the old wagon- wheel veterans of Hoffa's day-- such as Boston's Nick Morrissey who got there about the time the bean and the cod did.

Morrissey is one of Hoffa's most dedicated supporters. He fought to get Hoffa out of prison. Now Morrissey has been removed from his well- paying international representative New England post. This is a sign of the times.

A pertinent sign. The Teamsters Brotherhood is the free world's biggest union. Whoever leads it has national and--- in today's multinational climate--- international political clout.

Its influence with President Nixon is unique. This too is pertinent, for the next four years anyway. Fitz is privately angry with other labor leaders who are blasting the President and the latter's economic advisers over Phase Three. Fitz is rallying to the President. Actually, Fitz is ready for a confrontation with some of them, two of whom were Sen. McGovern's most powerful supporters.

Should the attack continue on the President and the intellectual policy - making White House economic quadriad, Fitz will throw the Teamsters' full weight behind Richard Nixon.

As Fitz put it recently: "Fortunately for our organization, we do have access to the chambers where the policy- makers meet. We have their respect and... their promise that we will be listened to when we disagree."

It couldn't have happened if Hoffa's docket hadn't been closed. A new phase, with new faces, has been opened on the labor and political fronts.

Washington Merry - Go - Round

Money, Politics And 'Big John'
By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON-- Debonair, dynamic John Connally has always had an affinity for money and politics. He hasn't always drawn a clear line between the two.

While he was secretary of the treasury, his former law partners filed applications for three national bank charters. All three were approved, more than any other Texas law firm was able to wangle. At least four other bank charters were granted to his political associates.

Connally is now back with his law firm, raking in the green. One of his law partners has boated around Washington that so many corporations are clamoring to get Connally on their boards that he has set a minimum $50,000 fee for the privilege of listing him as a director.

We couldn't reach Connally to ask how much he charges, but a spokesman for his firm denied that the former treasury secretary collects a flat fee. He serves on many boards, the spokesman acknowledged, but any fee would be part of the retainer paid to the firm.

"Connally has gotten us new business," admitted the spokesman. But he insisted it wasn't Connally's political influence that attracted clients. "In the business world today on the highest levels," said the spokesman, "there is a lot of just plain horse trading, putting together mergers, oil consortiums. Connally is a good lawyer, persuasive, immensely knowledgeable, a good horse trader. He brings to the negotiating table a good name and a lot of clout."

Using Connally

The spokesman also denied that Connally intervened while he was at the treasury to help the firm wangle bank charters. "If we were going to use Connally in the role of treasury secretary," explained the spokesman, "there are better ways than bank charters. You can only go to the well and drink so many times."

It remains a fact, however, that the Connally firm-- Vinson, Elkins, Searls and Smith-- arranged charters for banks in Houston, Orange and Raymondville, Texas. The Raymondville charter (for the purpose of forming a holding company) was approved in a record three days after the application was filed.

Connally's former press secretary, Mike Myers, also was granted a charter for the Love Field National Bank in Dallas. Connally and Myers were former partners in the Trini's Mexican Restaurant chain and are still associated in a real estate development in Fort Worth.

The name of another close associate, Robert Strauss, now Democratic national chairman, appeared on an application to charter the Town North National Bank in Dallas. An earlier application, filed in 1970 before Connally became secretary, was disapproved. But after Strauss joined the applicants and Connally took charge of the treasury, the charter was approved.

Two other Connally loyalists, Tom W. Miller, son of a former Austin mayor, and Horace Hall, a power in Laredo, were involved in successful applications for banks in Roundrock and Laredo, Texas, respectively.

Connally's Wealth

"Big John," as Connally is often called by his associates, has come a long way since he first broke into Texas politics in the 1940s. He came out of rural Texas, with the taste of poverty still in his mouth. He made a name for himself as the late Lyndon Johnson's political protege.

This opened the backrooms of the Texas oil millionaires for him and he caught the fancy of the late oil tycoon Sid Richardson; Oil and politics mixed well for Connally, who acquired the same smooth quality as the oils he promoted and quickly wound up as a millionaire himself.

Those privy to the smoke-filled backrooms say it was his oil credentials as much as his political credentials that got him appointed secretary of the navy under John Kennedy and later secretary of the treasury under Richard Nixon. The oil industry has a big stake in naval oil reserves and perhaps an even greater interest in favorable treasury rulings.

Footnote: Both Myers and Strauss denied that Connally had helped them get bank charters. A treasury spokesman said the comptroller of the currency approved all bank charters and the secretary "has no part in the decision- making process." The remarkable success of Connally's law partners and political cronies during his tenure, the spokesman indicated, was merely a coincidence.

Missing Men

Investigating teams, operating out of Nakhon Phanom, Thailand, just across the border from Laos, are scouring intelligence reports and running down leads for any trace of the American servicemen who are still missing in Indochina.

The U.S. base at Nakhon Phanom was turned into an intelligence- communications complex during the fighting in Vietnam. The sophisticated equipment, including a giant computer, has been put at the disposal of the investigating teams.

Five die in Missouri traffic accidents

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

At least five persons died in Missouri traffic accidents over the weekend.

A Waukee, Iowa man, Joe Reagan, 35, died Sunday in a Des Moines hospital of injuries suffered Saturday in a two-car crash on Highway 46 near Grant City, in north central Missouri.

Billy Gene Hood, 19, Aurora, Mo., died in a one-car accident on a Lawrence County road about three miles west of Marionville Sunday.

Grenell Steelman, 45, Salem, was killed when he was hit by a car as he pushed a stalled pickup truck on Missouri 19 near Salem Sunday.

Killed Saturday:

William M. Wolfe, 39, Bates City, Mo., in a two-car crash on U.S. 50 near Warrensburg.

Joseph Gavas Jr., 26, Ash Grove, Mo., when his car ran off Missouri 266 and slammed into a tree about six miles west

Optimism expressed on funding of bus system

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Legislators from both Missouri and Illinois expressed optimism Sunday that their states would furnish the faltering Bi-State Transit System with enough money to avert the April 1 shutdown of bus service in the St. Louis area.

Rep. Richard Rabbitt, D-St. Louis, speaker of the Missouri House, said he is hopeful that action will be completed this week on a bill to appropriate $215,000 for the financially troubled bus system. That amount has been approved by the Senate Appropriations Committee.

On the other side of the river, Sen. William Harris, R-Pontiac, president of the Illinois senate, said he could "promise" that a bill including $530,000 for the bus lines will be approved before the week is out.

Officials of the Bi-State Development Agency said the total $745,000 would be enough to continue transit operations through June 30, the end of the Bi-State fiscal year.

Last Satureay, however the Bi-State board of commissioners took a precaution in case the necessary funds are not forthcoming and set April 1 as the official date for ceasing operations.

Edward J. Delmore Jr., board chairman, said if the system is forced to shutdown, about 1,500 employes will be put out of work.

The board's action Saturday did leave open the possibility that if only one state furnishes money for continuation of transit services, the buses could continue operating there and cease operation in the other state.

School teacher charged

CREVE COEUR, Mo. (AP) — A sixth-grade school teacher was charged with two counts of first-degree murder Sunday in connection with the shotgun slaying of two St. Louis County business executives late Saturday night.

Bobby Ray Speedy, 39, of St. Ann was charged with the murders of James Gordon Meeks, 53, and Clark Milo Brown, 58, during a dinner party at Meeks' apartment, just north of this west St. Louis suburb. Both men were executives with the Metal Goods Division of the Alcan Aluminum Corp.

Magistrate Richard T. Enright set bond at $75,000 for Speedy, a teacher at Larimore School in the Hazelwood School District.

According to police, Meeks and his five guests, who included Brown and Speedy's former wife Judy Ann Speedy, were seated around the dinner table when a man with a 16 guage shotgun burst into the room.

The gunman called Meeks a vulgar name and shot him as he rose from his chair, police said. He then turned the gun on Brown and killed him.

Brown's daughter Barbara said the assailant leveled the shotgun at a third man, but when he pulled the trigger, the gun apparently misfired.

Miss Brown said Mrs. Speedy ran into a back bedroom when the gunman entered and was calling police when the shootings occurred.

Following the shootings the assailant ran to the back bedroom where Mrs. Speedy was, police said, but she was able to get the gun away from him.

A witness said the man then ran to the balcony, jumped and fled in a car.

Police said Speedy surrendered just before midnight and was identified in a police lineup by some of Meeks' guests.

Mrs. Speedy said she was divorced from her husband last June after 18 years of marriage.

A spokesman at the Hazelwood School District said Speedy was a respected teacher.

What's the law?

The case of the religious boss

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Harvey, honestly and truly, was a very religious man. And one of his strongest religious convictions, unfortunately, was that it was wrong for him, or anyone else for that matter, to have anything to do with labor unions. Since Harvey owned and operated a small factory, this presented somewhat of a problem, particularly since his employes wanted to negotiate a union contract with him.

Totally frustrated by Harvey's repeated refusal to have anything to do with a union, his employes finally started a proceeding against him for refusing to bargain with them "in good faith" as the law required.

"It's unbelieveable," the employes complained. "As soon as Harvey hears the word 'union,' he looks up to heaven like the devil is after him with a pitchfork."

"What do they want from me?" retorted Harvey. "I can't bargain with them 'in good faith' because, for religious reasons, I don't believe in the law requiring it. And to force me to bargain with a union would be to violate my Constitutional freedom of religion. Consequently, they've got to let me be."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you require religious Harvey to sit down and bargain with the union?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held that the law requiring collective bargaining is directed at business corporations and not against religious observances. An employer is not required to believe in the law, concluded the judge, just to comply with it.

Poker-playing husband misses birth

Dear Ann Landers: What do you think of a husband who will not leave the dice table when his wife phones him and says her labor pains have started? This is what happened to my sister and I am so mad at that bum I could knock his fat head off.

I was at her house at the time and the poor kid was so upset she handed me the phone. I said, "Look, Barney, you ought to come home and drive Hazel to the hospital. I haven't got a car or I'd take her. Besides, it's your place." Do you know what he said, Ann? "I'm in the middle of a hot streak and I'm going to stay here and make the kid's first year of college."

So I called a taxi. When the driver saw my sister he said, "I ain't no doctor and I take no responsibility." It was some wild ride. He was so anxious to get us out of his cab we almost had an accident.

When we got to the hospital my poor sister said, "I feel like an unwed mother. I'll bet they don't believe I'm married."

The baby was born an hour later--- a beautiful nine- pound boy--- and Barney was nowhere in sight. When they brought Hazel out of the delivery room she was out like a light.

The next morning I get a call from Hazel saying Barney was so wonderul. He was at her bed when she woke up and he handed her $820 in tens and twenties. I don't think he's wonderful at all. I think he's a skunk. What do you think? Please put it in writing.--- Hazel's Sister

Dear Sister: If Hazel thinks he's wonderful what does it matter what I think? Or you, for that matter. Stop undermining your sister's marriage. I like sugar on my strawberries and some people like sour cream on theirs.

Dear Ann Landers: We've been married 15 years. Our three children are in school all day and for the last two years my wife has spent all her spare time entering contests. She has written poems, slogans and essays and spent a small fortune on junk so she can get the tops of cans, coupons, box tops, bottle caps and assorted things she needs to be a contestant. This is not to mention the money she has spent on writing paper, a typewriter, a $60 dictionary, special ink, crayons, postage, ribbons, and the golderndest odds and ends to make her entries "unusual."

Would you believe that woman has never won a thing? I mean not so much as a candy bar. I can't believer her entries are that bad. In fact, I've seen some and they look pretty good to me.

I'm beginning to think those contests are fakes. I have never known a person who won anything. Have you? Will you please say something about this in your column?--- Booby's Chuck

Dear Chuck: Some contests are semi- fake, but most of them are on the level. They do give prizes and somebody wins them.

Tell Booby that the entries are not always selected on the basis of "originality, creativity, neatness...etc." There are many other considerations. Small town entries have a better chance. It helps if you live in Alaska, Montana or Nevada. The judges favor people from sparsely populated areas. Tell Booby not to become discouraged. It's a nice hobby.

Insightful comments on History

IN THE LIGHT OF HISTORY. By J.H. Plumb. Houghton, Mifflin. 263 Pages. $6.95.

There is a wide variety of topics in this collection of essays, book reviews and articles by a prominent historian — English, but well-acquainted with America — who specializes in the 18th century.

The book's Part One is devoted to that century and ranges from such subjects as Henry Fielding, Edmund Burke and "British Attitudes to the American Revolution" to such offbeat things as "The Royal Porcelain Craze." It is for browsing by readers with a taste for history.

Part Two, which has the same title as the book, puts into perspective some of today's phenomena as the historian sees them. A piece on "Secular Heretics," for example, contrasts modern hippies with their counterparts in other generations and other centuries. The same is true of women's lib, fads in clothing and attitudes toward death

It also has a comment on riots in the city, and "A Walk in Detroit" is a perceptive observation on urban problems. "The Anarchy of Art" is an exceptionally clear-eyed overview of modern art. Part Two demonstrates Plumb's wit and insight.

Part Three, "Other Times, Other Places," contains an article on Pepys, a piece on the hypocrisy of the outwardly prudish Victorian period, and a lucid explanation of what made the Edwardians what they were.

Well worth reading.

Plan before you shop

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first of a series of articles on how to save money while shopping for food.)

By PAT GROJEAN

Stretching today's devalued dollar to provide nutritious meals for your family on a low cost basis is a difficult task. Food is one of the most important items for the family's health and well-being. With planning and careful shopping, there is a way to stretch the food dollar and still enjoy nutritionally balanced meals.

The amount of money available to spend on food varies with the size of income. No matter what the family income is, the homemaker must still provide good meals for her family.

Many women want to stretch their food budgets but, at the same time, they worry about cutting costs that might lead to a loss of both variety and nutritional value in the family meals.

One of the first requirements in the quest to save money is to know your family's needs. Decide on the purpose of each item you are going to buy and how it is to be used. Don't buy any more than your family needs.

Next, make a general plan of your family's meals for the week. Be sure to include foods from the basic four groups: meat, fish and poultry; fruits and vegetables; dairy products; breads and cereals. If you shop once a week, buy only what you need.

Try planning a week's menus around the week's specials at a couple of nearby markets. For this to be effective, you must know the normal price of the items you are going to buy.

Another important step in saving money is to use the food advertisements in the newspaper. Know how to spot a bargain. To be worthwhile, a bargain must not only save you money, but must be practical and needed. Rather than running from store to store to get bargains, use one or two stores that are near each other. What you waste in time and gasoline may not really make up the difference unless it is right on your way.

The next step in saving money is to check the foods you have on hand that can be used in your loosely drawn menu plan for the week. Using what you have on hand can save money.

Use the older, perishable foods first, before they go to waste.

Plan to buy only the amount you need in order to avoid unwanted and often uneaten leftovers. Make a note of the foods your family likes and dislikes and those they leave uneaten.

Reduce the amount of low-nutrition and high-calorie foods on your shopping list.

Be sure to prepare a list before you shop. Stick to that list and do not be tempted by impulse buying. Some experts say that consumers can save as much as 25 per cent by avoiding impulse buying. It may not be quite that much, but it will make a difference.

Compare local stores for quality and price, then choose the one that best fits your needs. Consider both factors.

Once you make your shopping list, stick to it, only yielding to the genuine, unexpected bargains. It is recommended that you keep a small notebook, listing food items, brands and prices to familiarize yourself with current food prices and to avoid mistaking a bargain for something the store just decided to advertise that week. This will have to be kept up to date though.

Finally, with a list and a plan, try to limit your shopping to just one trip a week.

Avoid impulse buying. One way to do this is to be sure you have eaten before you go. You are more likely to pick up something you don't need when you are hungry. Another way is to stick to your shopping list.

Shopping with children will also add extras to your grocery car. And the longer you stay in the store, the more apt you are to buy something not on the list.

Know how much an item actually costs. Figure the cost per serving, not just the cost per ounce or pound.

Know how to do it yourself. Buying milk in a supermarket, rather than having it delivered may result in substantial savings. Avoid convenience foods, or foods with a built-in maid service. For example, avoid presugared cereals, you can add the sugar yourself and save money.

With careful planning and shopping, a consumer can save money on food purchases and, at the same time, provide nutritious meals for the family. Next in the series will be tips for use as you shop for food.

Garner calls for new energy policy

Acknowledging the fact that the energy problem faced by this country has reached the critical stage, a major oil company spokesman recently called for sound national energy policies to keep up with increasing demands for oil and gas and for energy conservation both at home and at work.

In a speech before the Kiwanis of Sikeston, Walt Garner, District Manager for Amoco Oil Company, said a new national energy policy is needed if the petroleum industry is to cope with the current supply/ demand imbalance.

Garner told his audience that such a policy should be designed to meet the public's desire for both a cleaner, healthier environment and an ample supply of energy.

"This twin objective is possible," he said, "but only if we carefully balance costs against benefits and not go all-out for one while paying too little attention to the other."

Illustrating his talk with color slides, Garner pointed out that with only one-seventeenth of the world's population, Americans consume about one- third of the world's energy. And more than three- fourths of that energy is supplied by petroleum -- 43 per cent by oil and 33 per cent by gas.

"The problem lies in the fact that by 1985, we'll be using energy at about double today's rate -- and by 2000, the demand may well be three times what it is now," he stated. "Of this vastly expanded demand, oil and gas will still have to supply about 59 per cent."

"There is no short- term way to reverse the trend of declining petroleum reserves," Garner added. "So we will have to make more use of oil imports in the immediate future. It's our only alternative."

He said the U.S. already imports about one- quarter of the oil it uses and by 1985 "we'll be importing as much as half." But factors such as cost, uncertainty of supply (due to political uncertainty affecting overseas supply) and huge balance of payments problems make complete dependence on oil imports undesirable.

Garner urged the Kiwanis to help alleviate the energy- proglem by conserving heat at home and at work.

"Keeping thermostats at 70 degrees during the day -- and down to 60 for eight hours at night -- can save as much as 10 per cent of your fuel and your fuel bill," he said. "Another way to help is to make sure that your heating plant is working properly. Whatever fuel you burn, it takes less if the furnace is operating efficiently."

Garner also cited several other ways to conserve energy such as installing storm windows and insulation, weatherstripping badly- fitting windows, sealing off cracks, and closing off rooms that are unused.

"Everyone has a stake in helping to alleviate the energy crunch and averting even more serious crises in the future," he maintained. "If everyone saves a little, no one will go without."

Scotland Yard investigates Bermuda murder

HAMILTON, Bermuda (AP) — More Scotland Yard detectives were due in Bermuda today to join the investigation of the murder of the island's British governor and his aidede-camp. Police said they were questioning a number of persons but had made no arrests.

Gov. Sir Richard Sharples, 57, and Capt. Hugh Sayers, 25, were shot shortly before midnight Saturday. Their bodies were found outside the front door of Government House, the governor's residence.

Police said they did not know how many gunmen were involved in the slayings, which occurred after a small dinner party while the men were walking Sharples' pet great Dane, Horsa. The dog also was killed.

There were no security measures in effect at the time for the 15 acre park that surrounds the residence about a mile from Hamilton. Only the usual unarmed guard was on duty at the mansion.

A state of emergency was declared immediately, giving police the power to keep suspects from leaving the island. It appeared to have virtually no effect on the thousands of tourists jamming hotels.

Korean War prisoner freed

CLARK AIR BASE, Philippines (AP) — John T. Downey, the last American prisoner of the Korean War, was freed from China today and flew home to see his seriously ill mother in Connecticut.

Peking let the CIA operative go after an appeal from President Nixon that he be allowed to join his 75-year-old mother, Mary Downey of New Britain. His release had been expected as a result of the visits to Peking by Nixon and Henry A. Kissinger but not until later this year. The other two Americans known to be held in China, Air Force Maj. Philip E. Smith and Lt. Cmdr. Robert J. Flynn, are scheduled to be freed on Thursday. Downey told Red Cross representatives that he was in the same cell block with them and both appeared to be in "excellent spirits and health."

Both Smith and Flynn were shot down on missions in Vietnam when they strayed over China. Downey, who has spent nearly 21 of his 42 years in Chinese prisons, looked pale but smiled continuously when he arrived at Clark Air Base from Hong Kong. He told newsmen he was "fine."

At Clark he found his brother William, a New York attorney, who arrived several hours earlier.

"I just want to say how grateful I am for being released," Downey told newsmen. "And I appreciate the Chinese government letting me go at this time, and President Nixon for his efforts on my behalf, and Dr. Kissinger. I'm very pleased to be out; and at the same time, I'm very anxious to get home and see my mother."

William Downey said a doctor had examined his brother on the flight from Hong Kong and "he checks out fine on a preliminary examination. He certainly feels and looks good."

The two brothers took off in a special C141 medical evacuation transport at 1:42 a.m. EST for Elmendorf Air Base in Alaska. From there, they were to fly to either Hartford, Conn., or Westover Air Base in Massachusetts.

Downey's mother, who visited him a number of times in Peking, suffered a stroke last Wednesday. She regained consciousness Sunday, but a spokesman at New Britain General Hospital said her condition still was critical.

Peking's Hsinhua news agency made a brief announcement of Downey's release shortly after he arrived in Hong Kong: "Considering that Downey confessed his crime and his behavior was not bad while serving his term, China's organs of dictatorship decided to grant him leniency and release him immediately." There was no reference to Downey's mother or President Nixon's request.

A Red Cross official, Eugene D. Guy, crossed the border at Hong Kong to greet Downey and escort him across the Lo Wu Bridge. Guy handed the Chinese a receipt that said the American people were most appreciative of China's "humanitarian action" in freeing Downey.

A British medical officer who accompanied the reception team said Downey "talked normally and, although he was somewhat quiet, he seemed quite happy," it said.

Downey told them he had learned three days ago from the Chinese of his release.

"I feel very fit," he said.

James E. Bowling of St. Louis, Mo., a Red Cross representative who accompanied Downey to the Philippines, said he was "very steady and very well composed" when they met in Hong Kong, his handshake was firm and he walked briskly.

"He also had a sharp mind," said Bowling.

The flight was Downey's first aboard a jet plane, and Bowling said he asked questions about it. Bowling said Downey did not inquire about Fecteau or discuss his prison life except to say he kept fit by jogging.

Downey was sent six pink roses by an American tourist, Jan Nyes of Hartford, Conn. Bowling said Miss Nyes heard about Downey's release and sent the roses because they both are from Connecticut.

Downey's release permitted a Red Cross representative to enter the Chinese side of the Hong Kong border for the first time, Bowling said. He said the Red Cross has delivered packages of food and other items to American prisoners in China once a month since 1955. These deliveries have always taken place at the middle of the border bridge.

Harry Walker, who managed the Houston Astros last season, will help the St. Louis Cardinals and their Tulsa farm team in hitting instruction this year.

French voters give Gaullists 5 more years

PARIS (AP) — French voters have given the Gaullists another five years in control of the National Assembly but have reduced the government coalition's majority to less than 60 seats.

Following runoff voting Sunday, returns from 486 of the 490 electoral districts gave the Gaullist coalition 274 seats, the Communist-Socialist alliance 181, the centrist Reform Movement 28 and extreme rightists 3.

The Communist Party won 73 seats, compared with 34 in the last election in 1968, and the Socialists moved up from 57 to 89. The other leftist seats went to splinter parties on the extreme left.

The outcome was much more favorable to the Gaulists than had been expected. President Georges Pompidou was so worried by the strong leftist showing in public opinion polls and the first round of voting last Sunday that he made a lastminute television appeal to the voters Saturday. Pompidou himself was not up for re-election.

The economic achievements of the Gaullists over the past 15 years plus the basic conservatism of many Frenchmen pulled the government through. But the result was a warning that the left's calls for a better deal for the poor and for more equalization of economic gains had sympathetic echoes throughout the country.

"It is correct that these elections reflect a will for renewal by a large number of voters," Premier Pierre Messmer admitted.

The Gaullist majority in the assembly took a monumental dive from the 284-seat margin won in the 1968 landslide. But that occurred after the May student riots scared the French voters badly. The Gaullists could take some comfort from their new majority's being considerably better than the onevote edge they won in the last "normal" elections in 1967.

Significantly, the heaviest losses were suffered by the Union for the Defense of the Republic, the Gaullist party. It fell from 293 seats to 181, making it more dependent on its partners, Finance Minister Valery Giscard d'Estaing's Independent Republicans and Jacques Duhamel's Democratic Center party.

Unemployment payments decline

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Unemployment benefit payments declined 8.7 per cent from January to February, J. R. Kratochvil, assistant director of administration for the Missouri Division of Employment Security announced Thursday.

Unemployment benefit payments to jobless workers for February totaled $8,361,791, Kratochvil said.

He also said the February total was an 11 per cent drop from the same period last year.

Claims for benefits totaled 185,039 in February, compared with 227,760 in January.

Kratochvil said the decrease in claims in February was due partly to good weather conditions in some areas, which permitted construction workers to go back to work.

In addition to the regular program of unemployment insurance benefits the division administers similar federal programs for ex-servicemen and former federal civilian workers.

The average weekly benefit check for the unemployment program was $52.97 in February.

Four banking bills pass senate

JEFFERSON CITY —Although it is too early to count the final score, one of the big point-getters in this 77th session of the Missouri General Assembly has been the banking industry.

Four bills backed by the Missouri Bankers Association (MBA) have passed the Senate and are awaiting House action.

The first such bill is a proposal favored by State Treasurer James Spainhower which would allow banks to pay higher interest rates on idle state funds. Currently, the state gets more interest on funds invested in U. S. Treasury notes. Spainhower says he would prefer to leave Missouri's money in Missouri, and would invest state money in Missouri banks if they raise their interest rates to match the Treasury notes.

The Senate passed the bill without objection, and it is expected to have an easy time in the House.

Another bill which has passed the Senate is sponsored by Sen. Richard Webster (R-Carthage) and would amend the times sales act on automobiles and motor homes. Webster's bill extends the act to cover farm equipment, and would permit banks to make loans at the same rate as car dealers, which are considerably higher than present rates now charged by banks.

A bill which would allow small loan companies to raise the amount of interest charged on loans of more than $500 from eight to 27 per cent had a far more difficult time getting through the Senate. It passed by a vote of 17-14, and may run into trouble in the House.

Webster, who also sponsored this bill, argued that due to the inflation of the past 20 years, the increase was justified in order to keep people from going to "loan sharks" who may charge 100 per cent or more.

He was opposed by Senators who said the "little man" would suffer from the bill because persons who use small loan companies are generally those who can least afford to pay higher interest rates.

The small loan companies can charge 27 per cent interest on loans of $500 or less at the present time.

The fourth bill favored by the MBA is another extension of what may or may not be "branch banking" in Missouri. The bill permits the "drive-in facilities" of banks to make loans, and thereby puts them on an almost equal basis with the main banking offices. The only function not permitted drive-in banks would be setting up trust agreements.

The development of drive-in facilities from being a window in the side of the main bank to separate - and almost-equal institutions perhaps miles from the main bank is the story of slow and persistent efforts by banking lobbyists in the state legislature.

In 1958, Missouri voters overwhelmingly defeated a constitutional amendment which would haver permitted a bank to operate one or more branches in the city or county where the main bank is located.

Opponents of branch banking said at that time they were not against allowing banks to increase their service to customers and communities, but against concentrating the power of the state's finances in the hands of a few.

So those who favored branch banking stopped calling it "branch banking". Instead, they concentrated on the drive-in facilities, which were first permitted in 1959. At that time, a bank could operate only one facility, and it had to be within 1,000 yards of the main bank. Its functions were limited to accepting and withdrawing deposits, making change, and cashing checks.

In later years, they were permitted to handle safe deposit box operations and to accept loan payments. In 1971, the Legislature increased the maximum distance from the bank to 4,000 yards.

Last year, the General Assembly authorized the bank to have as many as two facilities, and removed the distance restriction entirely.

The bill has passed the Senate, and its sponsor, Sen. Albert Spradling, says prospects for House passage are "excellent".

Spradling denies that the bill is designed to institute branch banking. Rather, he says, the bill is necessary to place independent bankers on the same footing as bank holding companies. He explained that independent bankers are at a disadvantage in competing with the holding companies which control the resources of several banks, and can shift resources around where they are needed.

A Democrat from Cape Girardeau, Spradling chairman of the Farmers and Merchants Banks there, and holds stock in two other southeast Missouri banks.

Smith named SHS grid coach

Terry Smith, head football coach for the past five years at Perryville High School and one of Southeast Missouri's most respected prep gridiron coaches, will try to revive Sikeston High School's sputtering gridiron hopes next season when the 31-year old University of Arkansas graduate takes over control of the Bulldog grid program.

Smith replaces Pete Cirrintano, who resigned after the 1972 season to return to college to complete work on his master's degree. Sikeston fared well under Cirrintano's tutelage and fashioned a 3-7 season log although being hampered by injuries all season.

Cirrintano took over from Bill Priday, who stepped down to take an administrative position after three years as SHS head coach.

Sikeston gridiron clubs won only one game against Smith's teams at Perryville during his five year tenure, beating the Pirates on a late score in 1969.

Perryville has had one of the most respected high school football teams in the Bootheel region during the five years in which Smith was coach, posting a 33-14 record, including a share of the 1968 Northern Division title and a Class AAA state championship.

Terry Smith

Coach Smith's teams at Perryville and at Prairie Grove and Lewisville, Ark., where he coached before coming to the Bootheel, have been noted for hard hitting and steady play.

The courteous, soft-spoken coach has fashioned 8-1 records the past two seasons at Perryville, but faces a challenging task at SHS where he comes in without any junior high football training experience behind his ninth, 10, 11th and 12th graders. The Junior high program will be reinstated at SHS next season.

"We'll have a summer clinic the last two weeks of July," Coach Smith told The Daily Standard today.

A physical fitness program for all Sikeston students is planned for June.

Coach Smith and his wife Paula, along with 5-year -old son, Terry Jr., and 2- year- old daughter, Stephanie, hope to move to Sikeston as soon as the school year is completed at Perryville.

Northeast Nodaway claims girls title

MARRYVILLE, Mo. (AP) — Two weeks ago today, 184 teams from across the state begin play in the first girls basketball playoffs in the history of the Missouri State High School Activities Assn, but when the finals ended here Saturday the winner had to go only 10 miles to reach home.

Northeast Nodaway of Ravenwood closed out a perfect 31-0 season and claimed its 75th victory in 76 starts over a three year period by trimming South Shelby, 41-35, in the championship game at Northwest Missouri State.

Wheeling, which saw a twoyear winning steak of 35 games halted with a semifinal loss to South Shelby, came back to take third place with a 43-30 triumph over Cass Midway.

Northeast Nodaway outscored Shelby, 15-5, in the third quarter to snap an 18-all halftime deadlock and take command. Janet McCrorey led a balanced attack for the winners with 14 points and Nacy Rutter's 19 points topped South Shelby. Ravenwood is 10 miles east of Maryville.

South Shelby had made it 21 straight victories with the 45-34 nod over Wheeling Friday night and bowed out 23-3.

The title route for the Ravenwood club included the championship of the Burlington Junction regional, a 44-31 conquest of Cainsville in the quarterfinals and a 40-36 decision over Cass Midway in the semis.

Cass Midway had won 40 straight to that point and wound up 20-2. The consolation victory gave Wheeling a final 31-1 reading.

Brown went out swinging

COLUMBIA, Mo. — Missouri University's all-time leading basketball scorer, John Brown, literally went out swinging in his final appearance before the home town folks Saturday afternoon.

The big 6-foot-8 Mizzou center was ejected from the game, which was proclaimed John Brown day, with 16:38 to play after engaging in a brief game of fist-a- cuffs with Nebraska's Don Jackson.

The 12th rated Tigers won the Big Eight Conference finale, dropping Nebraska 86-70 behind the leadership of junior reserve Gary Link, who scored 21 points for Mizzou.

But as far as most Missouri fans, including coach Norm Stewart, were concerned, the game was apprarently a loser. Brown suffered an injured ear in the fracus.

The fight, an exchange of a few random blows, lasted less than four seconds, and came at the Missouri free throw line seconds after Jackson had pumped in a turn around jumper over the out- stretched arms of Brown. Nebraska coach Joe Cipriano explained the situation that brought on the incident this way: "The way I hear it, Jackson apparently told Brown he didn't like the way he combed his hair."

Coach Cipriano was pleased with the situation, as he noted: "I would gladly exchange a sophomore for an All- American anytime."

But the incident gave Mizzou the spark it needed to pull away from the pesky Cornhuskers, who trailed the Tigers by one five points at the time of the mishap.

The Tigers quickly pulled away behind Link and the out- side shooting of Mike Jeffries and Al Eberhard, who added 18 and 17 points respectively to the Mizzou offense. Brown had 14 points at the time of departure.

Mizzou heads for New York and the National Invitational Basketball tournament, playing Massachusetts Saturday night at 6 p.m. in Madison Square Garden.

Kansas State and Missouri once again are headed for post-season basketball play, but there is only next season to consider now for the other members of the Big Eight Conference.

Kansas State put the finishing touches on its second straight league title and third in four seasons Saturday night by rocking one-time contender Colorado, 76-66. That earned Jack Hartman's Wildcats a 12-2 Big Eight finish, the same as last year.

The 'Cats improved their over-all record from 19-9 to 22-4. "I'll take that any time," Hartman beamed as 11th-ranked K-State turned its attention to Southwest Louisiana, 24-3, in the semifinals of the Midwest NCAA regional Thursday at Houston.

Mizzou and Colorado's junior dominated Cinderella club wound up deadlocked for the Big Eight's runner-up slot at 95 when the Tigers dismantled Nebraska, 86-70, following Colorado's loss Saturday.

Oklahoma, another young team in a season where Big Eight clubs led by undergraduates were the rule rather than the exception, wrapped up fourth place with an 8-6 loop mark by turning back Oklahoma State, 86-78.

And Iowa State, up and down after leading the league in the early going, settled alone into fifth place at 7-7 by handing former power Kansas an 89-65 reversal.

That left Nebraska and Kansas tied for sixth with 4-10 marks after they shared fourth (at 7-7 a year ago. Oklahoma State again finished last at 3-11.

Next stop-New York

Big John Brown (50) hooks up a shot against Nebraska during Missouri University's final regular season game at Columbia Saturday afternoon. Brown is the all-time Mizzou scoring leader and will head MU into the National Invitational Basketball tournament Saturday in New York.

Two weeks ago it appeared the Colorado-KSU confrontation at Manhattan Saturday might decide the title on the last night of the season. But the Buffs lost to OU and Oklahoma State during one weekend road trip, ending their hopes.

Colorado appeared on the verge of an upset against the 'Cats before a sellout crowd of 12,500 in Ahearn Fieldhouse. Down only 42-40 at halftime, the Buffs nudged within one at 59-58.

But junior guard Lon Kruger popped two jumpers and drove for another basket as the second half opened while the visitors were going scoreless for almost five and a half minutes, missing 11 shots during the spell.

Kruger wound up with 17 points, Ernie Kuysner added 15, Steve Mitchell, 14, reserve Doug Snider 11 and Larry Williams 10. That balance was too much for Buffs, despite a season-high 24 points from Steve Aaker; Scott Wedman and Jerome Wright had 14 and 12, respectively.

Oklahoma made it 14 straight victories at home in cuffing OSU. The streak includes all 12 home games this season, the first time since 1929 the Sooners have gone unbeaten in Norman.

John MacLeod's squad hit 63 per cent from the field in building a 54-43 halftime bulge and only the Cowboys' free throws, 15 of 18 to OU's 2 of 4 by intermission, kept OSU in the game.

For the Sooners, finishing 18-8, sophomore Mike McCurdy canned 20 points, junior Tom Holland 19, junior Ted Evans 16 and freshman John Breathwit 14.

The Pokes, 7-19, got 21 points from junior Kevin Fitzgerald and 18 by soph K. C. Kincaide.

Iowa State put on a demonstration of the clinging defense that is the trademark of Maury John teams in pinning Kansas with its worst loss ever to a Cyclone team, and leaving KU boss Ted Owens with his worst record (8-18) since he assumed the reins in 1964.

"We played with great determination and intensity," John said, "and played the belly-button defense the way our coaching staff has wanted..."

Owens, with his Jayhawks lagging by a whopping 40-22 at the half en route to the poorest finish since the 1961-62 Kansas team, shuffled his 12 players in and out looking for an effective combination. The two biggest KU players, sophomores Rick Suttle (6-9) and Danny Knight (6-10) did not see action after intermission.

"It is performance that counts," Owens said quietly after the game. "I've never heard of a team winning because it had potential."

Suttle, the league's No. 8 scorer with a 16.3 average, finished with only six points.

Wooden likes odds

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The UCLA Bruins begin throwing for "seven" this week and John Wooden likes the odds, as usual.

"My optimism going into the NCAA playoffs is about the same as last year—I wouldn't trade my chances with anyone," says the highly successful coach.

It will take more than a roll of the dice to beat the nation's top-ranked team. The Bruins have won six straight national titles and appear just as strong this year as in the past.

"We were down a little but we are coming back and getting sharp at just the right time," says Wooden, whose team currently has a record 71-game winning streak over 3½ seasons and has won 32 straight games in the NCAA Tournament.

With a first-round victory Saturday, Arizona State earned the dubious honor of meeting the mighty Bruins this Thursday in one of the West Regional semifinal games. The other matches Long Beach State against the University of San Francisco, champion in the West Coast Athletic Conference.

Like UCLA, winner of the Pacific-8 Conference, San Francisco drew a first-round bye. But there was plenty of action over the weekend—nine game from coast-to-coast.

In the West Regional, Western Athletic Conference champion Arizona State rounced Oklahoma City 103-78 and Long Beach, champion of the Pacific Coast Athletic Association, beat Big Sky winner Weber State 88-75.

In the Mideast, Marquette scored a 77-62 victory over Miami of Ohio, the Mid-American Conference champion, and Ohio Valley Conference winner Austin Peay nipped Jacksonville 77-75.

South Carolina eliminated Southwest Conference champion Texas Tech 78-70, and Southwestern Louisiana smothered Houston 102-89 in the Midwest Ragional.

In the East, Syracuse took an 83-32 decision over Furman, the top team in the Southern Conference; Ivy League champion Penn edged St. John's N.Y. 62-61, and Providence registered an 89-76 triumph over St. Joseph's, Pa., the winner in the Middle Atlantic Conference.

Saturday's results set up the pairings for Thursday's semifinals in the four regions.

In the Midwest at Houston, it's South Carolina against Missouri Valley Conference titlit Memphis State and Southwestern Louisiana vs. Kansas State.

In the Mideast at Nashville, Tenn., Marquette faces Big Ten champion Indiana and Austin Peay will play Kentucky, winner in the Southeastern Conference. The West Regional will be held at UCLA's Pauley Pavilion in Los Angeles.

Although drawing a bye in the first round of the playoffs, UCLA still had some work to do over the weekend. The Bruins wrapped up their regular Pacific-8 Conference season with a 76-56 victory over Southern California.

The Big Ten Conference and Atlantic Coast Conference also finished their seasons. Indiana notched an NCAA berth, winning the Big Ten with a 77-72 victory over Purdue while Minnesota was upset by Northwestern 79-74. North Carolina State tripped Maryland 76-74 in the ACC playoff finale. However, Maryland will represent the league in the NCAA playoffs because North C

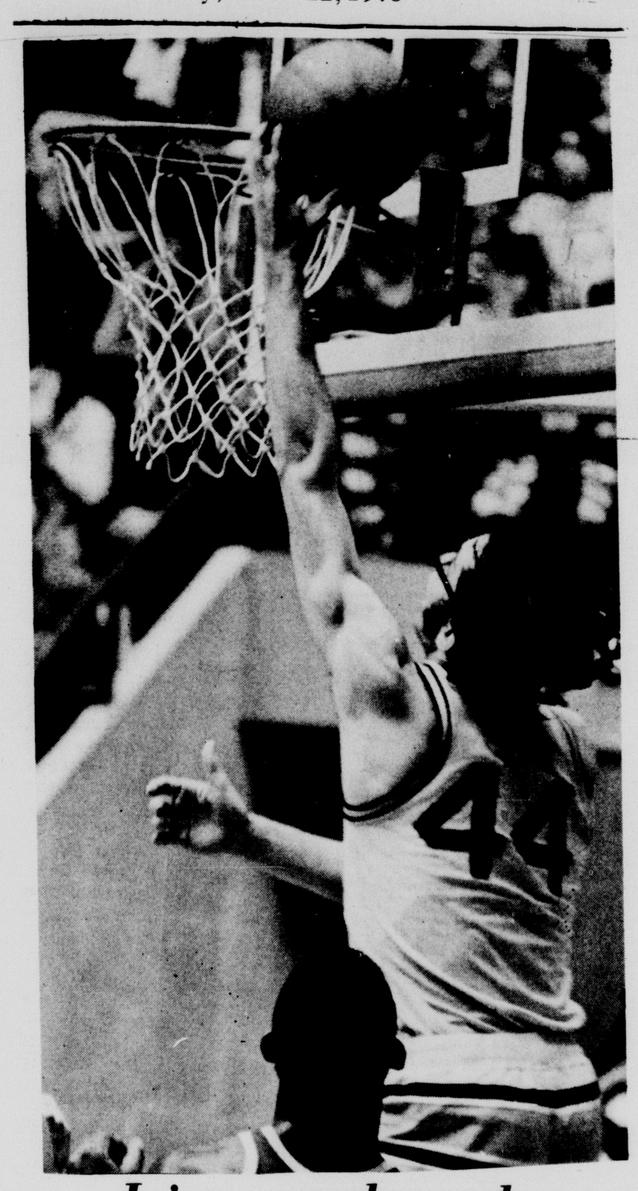
Kirkwood Number two!



Icing on the cake

This late game shot by DeSmet's Joe Stirmlinger (44) padded their lead over Kirkwood in the championship game of the class L state tournament at Columbia Saturday night.

COLUMBIA, Mo. — The Kirkwood Pioneers season long claim to being the number one basketball team in the state proved to be a false hood Saturday night as St. Louis DeSmet defeated them 51-47 in the championship game of the class L state tournament at Hearnes Multipurpose center before nearly 10,000 fans and a St. Louis television audience.

Kirkwood defeated Sikeston 73-55 in a first round game of the tournament at Hillsboro Monday night and boasted a 20 game winning streak along with a 27-1 season record and an early season 82-70 decision over the Spartans going into the title bout.

But the clutch play of big 6-foot-6 Jim Kennedy led the Trojans to their first state championship and shoved Kirkwood back into the bridesmaid role for the second year in a row and fourth time in the school's four years of state final appearances. Kennedy drilled in two free throws with less than a minute to go and then grabbed two key rebounds moments later to preserve the victory. The talented Trojan finished with a game high 15 points and 16 rebounds.

The Pioneers generally tough pressure defense was mastered by DeSmet who's own defense made the difference in the bout. Kirkwood was held to a below par 26.1 shooting average on the game and limited to only 17 points the second half after enjoying a 30-28 lead at intermission.

Sedalia Smith- Cotton rode the 28 points and 19 rebounds of big 6- foot- 8 Kim Anderson to a 68-62 conquest of Kansas City Paseo in the third place game.

DeSmet, in only its fourth year of varsity competition, avenged its early loss and posted a 28-5 record while extending its win streak to 10 games. Kirkwood finished at 27-2.

The title bout was close all the way and the game was tied 11 times and changed hands 12. The score was tied at 45-all with 2:31 remaining in the game. After DeSmet controlled the ball for almost one minute, Kennedy drove the lane, was fouled and converted both ends of the one- and - one foul situation.

Kirkwood missed twice at its end, Joe Stirmlinger downed two free tosses and after another Pioneer miss, Kennedy rebounded and drove the length of the floor for a short jumper that gave the Spartans a safe 51-45 lead 15 seconds from the end off the game.

Shane Cotner and Scott Schulte had 12 points each to lead Kirkwood's offense.

Sedalia shot off to a 23-10 lead in the first quarter against its Kansas City foe, built a 33-22 lead by halftime and had the Pirates down by 21 points in the third before the Pirates mounted a too-late rally.

Jim Sanders and Bud Seuers backed Anderson's leading effort with 19 and 13 point performances. Terry Blanks was almost a one man show for Paseo, baning in 24 points and picking off 20 rebounds.

Willie Mays fined

Not to be outdone by the marital headlines of New York Yankee pitchers Fritz Peterson and Mike Kekich and their respective spouses last week, one of the New York Met wives made a little news over the weekend.

Mrs. Mae Mays received an expensive visit from husband Willie while the Mets, who are looking for a center fielder anyway, put out baseball's version of an APB for the AWOL Willie.

The Yankees' official policy was hands off the Peterson- Kekich hi- jinks. Mays wasn't so lucky, and Manager Yogi Berra slapped him with a fine estimated from $500 to $1,000 after the 41- year- old superstar missed connections on a flight back from his Atherton, Calif., home to the Mets' St. Petersburg, Fla., training camp and failed to show up for a Saturday work out.

"I made a mistake," Mays admitted after Berra socked him with the first major fine of his long career at a Sunday meeting. "He made his point and he was right. When I'm wrong, I'm wrong. I should have told him."

At first, Mays said his wife wasn't feeling well. Later, he amended his story, saying, "Mostly my wife's lonesome, but she'll join me next week."

At any rate, Mays' absence Saturday had the Mets sending a search party to his apartment a few miles from St. Petersburg. Asked why he hadn't phoned when his original flight back from California was canceled, Mays shrugged:

"I should have. It sounds silly, but I didn't know the number. I could have found it out, I agree, but I thought I could be back before anybody knew I was gone."

The Mets also had their problems on the field Sunday, bowing to the St. Louis Cardinals 5- 4 on an 11th- inning single by Luis Melendez after they wiped out a 40- deficit. Three of the Cards' runs came on a homer by rookie Ray Busse.

Elsewhere, the pitchers suddenly no longer were ahead of the hitters.

Mike Schmidt drove in six runs with a triple and grand slam homer, powering the Philadelphia Phillies to a 9- 7 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates 'B' squad. Bill Robinson socked a two- run homer after Schmidt's grand slam in the sixth inning.

Milwaukee's George Scott also had a six- FBI game with a pair of three- run homers in the Brewers' 12- 2 rout of the San Diego Padres. The Brewers also got home runs from Darrell Porter and John Vukovich.

Cliff Johnson's grand slam capped a time- breaking five- run uprising in the ninth inning as the Houston Astros out slugged the Minnesota Twins 10- 5. Doug Rader also connected for the Astros while the losers got consecutive homers in the seventh inning from Bobby Darwin and Danny Walton. In other games it was Montreal 11, Texas Rangers 2: Baltimore 10, New York Yankees 0: Detroit 13, Cincinnati 8: Los Angeles 6, Atlanta 3: Boston 6, Pittsburgh 'A' squad 1: Kansas City 4, Chicago White Sox 3: San Francisco 9, Cleveland 5: Cleveland 'B' team 5, Oakland 4: California Angels 8, Chicago Cubs 7.

In February of this year, it took five days for the Sikeston Post Office to deliver a card mailed at the post office to an address on West Gladys Street. The card traveled less than one and a half blocks a day.

But undoubtedly the champion in this category is the American railroad system, which, according to commuters, has not had a train run on time in over a century.

The staff of the newsroom here at The Daily Standard isn't much better. Last week I asked them to complile a list of things they would like to put off or things they'd had to do in the past that they wished they could have forgotten about. Not a single one of them gave me their lists, even though they promised to do it promptly.

But, of course, I really couldn't say anything. After all, they all told me, they'd "do it tomorrow."

Grain Market

CHICAGO (AP) — Soybean and grain futures prices were mostly lower in early dealings on the Chicago Board of Trade today.

On the opening, soybeans were 7 cents a bushel lower to 1 cent higher, March 6.84; wheat was 2½ to 3¼ lower, March 2.36; corn was 1 lower to ¼ higher, March 1.68 and oats were unchanged to ¾ lower, May 86 cents.

Meat Eaters

Uruguayans have become the world's biggest meat eaters, with a per capita consumption of 227 pounds in 1967, the last year for which records are complete.

Legislators face abortion bills

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Missouri legislators will face the abortion issue for the first time this session when a House committee begins consideration Tuesday night of five bills related to abortion.

Two of the bills would allow hospital personnel to refuse to participate in abortions. Another bill would outline procedures to be followed in performing abortions, which would be allowed up to three months after conception.

Missouri's present law says an abortion can be performed only to save the life of the mother.

Another controversial issue, a bill to reinstate the death penalty, is expected to be debated in the House this week. The Senate already has twice debated a death penalty bill without taking any action.

The House and Senate were to begin their 10th week at 4 p.m. today. No bills have yet passed both houses, although a Senate-passed bill on budgeting is ready for House debate.

Government reorganization and property tax relief for the elderly probably will occupy the Senate's time this week.

The Senate Ways and Means Committee has come up with a formula whereby a person over 65 would pay a property tax bill no greater than 4 per cent of his income. Only those persons earning less than $7,500 a year would qualify under the formula.

Property tax relief for the elderly was approved in the November election. The means of achieving tax relief was left up to the legislature.

The House spent most of its time last week debating statewide voter registration and it could come up again this week. No action has been taken. Missouri has 76 counties without mandatory registration.

Scheduled for committee consideration in the Senate this week are measures to set up a police training council (Monday night), and to make May 8, Harry S. Truman's birthday, a state holiday (Tuesday night).

A rewritten spending bill, trimmed to $16.2 million from the House's $18.7 million, is being printed and is expected to be ready for debate later in the week. The money will supplement the current fiscal year's spending budget.

Dogcatcher resigns

PORTAGEVILLE— Joe Simmons, dogcatcher for 11 years, resigned at Thursday's City Council meeting, according to City Clerk Raymond Secoy, who said no one has been appointed to fill the facancy.

An ordinance lowering the minimum age for candidates for the office of mayor from 30 to 25 years was signed by Mayor Roy Moore. The ordinance was proposed and approved at a February council meeing, but did not become effective until March 5.

The council discussed buying a new police car, but no action was taken until prices are checked with local car dealers.

Educators discuss new project

Co- ordinators of Project Communi- Link, a process for community- wide program planning, look over plans and visual aids used to present the program to adult educators from Bootheel public schools. From left, Bill Sikes of Sikeston, adult education supervisor of Sikeston Public Schools; Elvin Long of Jefferson City, state director of adult education; Connie Tindel of Colorado State University at Fort Collins, Colo., community service coordinator of Communi- Link; and Stafford Thompson of Jefferson City, state supervisor of adult education, discuss plans for the rest of Saturday's session while participants in the program do a self- evaluation of their group after one part of the program in the Sikeston High School library. Project Communi-Link presented

By PAT GROJEAN

Project Communi-Link, a process for community - wide planning, was presented to area teachers, counselors and administrators of adult education in the Bootheel public school systems Friday and Saturday in the library of Sikeston High School.

The workshop, presented by Colorado State University of Ft. Collins, Colo., was attended by about 60 people, and ran from 6 to 10 p.m. Friday and 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Saturday.

Elvin Long of Jefferson City, director of adult education for the state of Missouri, said the State Department of Education coordinated the workshop with the Sikeston school system and Colorado State University. Bill Sikes of Sikeston, adult education supervisor, was in charge of coordinating the program in Sikeston.

Communi-Link is a multi-state education project designed to help communities and states plan and implement comprehensive adult education and community improvement programs. It encourages the development and enhancement of communication linkages necessary for communities to identify problems, assess resources and mobilize resources to meet local needs.

At the workshop, educators took up new roles as citizens, in the community of Microville. Microville is a simulated community game of Communi -Link to help teach people how to develop a community program.

The people attending are divided into groups of five or six which form councils called by the mayor of Microville. The councils each act independently and go through the process of planning a community program.

The different steps which must be followed are writing a philosophy, determining the strategy to find out needs, going out and finding the wants and needs, developing objectives and implementing a program.

After each step, the councils evaluated themselves as to how well they did.

All objectives and philosophies and other work done by the councils were typed up and given to the participants, so they would have something to guide them as they go out to develop a community program.

Roger Martinez Jr., a CSU staff member, said Communi-Link has been presented to 5,000 to 6,000 people throughout the nation. The project serves 14 states, but there is a national diffusion program to acquaint areas outside the 14 states with the concepts and acticities of Communi-Link.

Stafford Thompson of Jefferson City, a supervisor of adult education in Missouri, helped Long co-ordinate the program. Thompson formerly taught adult education in Sikeston.

Other CSU staffers, besides Martinez, were Connie Tindel and Tom Sork.

Communi-Link is a federally funded program.

For procrastination week

Sorry we're late

By RON PORTER

So much to do; so little done-- Cecil Rhodes.

Some people have a perfect genius for doing nothing, and doing it assiduously-- Haliburton.

I'll do it tomorrow-- Ron Porter.

Last week was National Procrastination Week, created in honor of those of us who have better things to do than the things we should be doing.

After all, who wants to work in the garden when there's a baseball game on television, or later in the year, rake the leaves when you could be watching football? Just tell the wife you'll do it next weekend, when the games aren't as good...

In keeping with the spirit of the occasion, we offer this list of champion procrastinators:

Perhaps the all- time champion award should go to a Chinese religious leader who, according to legend was born about 70 years after he was conceived. Sorry, we meant to look up his name, but we just kept putting it off.

In the runner- up position are two Mexicans, Octavio Guillen and Adriana Martinze, who were married in June 1969, following a 67-year engagement.

Crowding up behind them is Shirali Mislimov, a Russian who claims to be 168 years old. He's included in our list because, not since Methuselah, has anyone put off dying so determinedly.

Finally, we include Richard Nixon, who ran for the presidency in 1960, but waited eight years before taking office.

People aren't the only procrastinators. Whole institutions can drag their heels, also.

For instance, in the fifth century B.C., Democritus, a Greek, postulated the atomic structure of matter. It wasn't until almost 2,500 years later that anyone in the scientific community realized Democritus wasn't as dumb as he sounded.

Back packs missing

Two back packs valued at $35 were discovered missing at 1 p.m. Sunday from the storage room of an apartment building at 819 Davis Road, according to police.

The back packs belonged to Tim Ludwig, who discovered they were missing when he and his wife Teresa went to the storage room to get some items to take on an outing to Big Oak Tree State Park near East Prairie and discovered the room had been broken into.

Other items in the room, including golf clubs and fishing gear, were not disturbed, according to Ludwig.

Tools valued at $30 were taken between 6 p.m. Friday and 6 a.m. Saturday, from a truck owned by James Smith while parked at his home at 338 Crowe St. The tool set was described as a three-eighth to seven- eighth inch drive socket set.

Larry White of Benton Route One told police that a steroe set was stolen from his car between 7:30 and 9:30 p.m. Sunday while it was parked in front of Malone Theatre, 107 W. Malone Ave. No value was given for the stereo.

SeMo area rivers close to flooding

CAIRO, Ill. — Farmers and rivermen are still watching for a rapid rise of the Ohio and Mississippi Rivers as a result of heavy weekend rains, according to Haydn Fox, meteorologist in charge of the Cairo station of the U. S. Weather Bureau.

Rivers in the St. Louis area, swollen by the heavy rains, overflowed their banks during the weekend, forcing the closing of some streets and roads and the riverfront area downtown.

According to Fox, Cape Girardeau, Mo., is hurting the most this morning with a flood stage reading 36.7 feet up 1.7 feet since the weekend. Forecast for Cape Girardeau for Tuesday is a reading of 37.9; Wednesday, 38.5; and Thursday, 39.0; with the crest on March 17 reaching 39.5 feet.

The gauge at Cairo, which is located two and one-half miles from the confluence of the Mississippi and Ohio rivers on the Ohio, last Tuesday had a reading of 16.7 feet and today read 43.8.

Fox said Cairo has had the fastest rise since March 6 with Brookport, Ill., second with a rise of 16 feet and St. Louis, Mo., third, rising 17.2 since March 6.

The Weather Bureau had originally forcast a 41- foot crest at the Cairo gauge to come Wednesday.

But that estimate, like the others, does not include the expected rainfall which has been predicted for Wednesday and Thursday, Fox said. The crest could be around the 45-foot mark, he said.

For Cape Girardeau, the National Weather Service office predicted the river would crest at 36 feet by Wednesday — four feet above the 32- foot flood stage.

The Mississippi is expected to reach flood stage at Cairo early this week. A crest of 43.15 feet is forecast for Thursday, more than three feet above Cairo's 40-foot flood stage.

According to Fox, the flooding is being caused mostly by rainwater, not by melting snow.

New Madrid had a reading today of 31.6, a rise of 2.2 feet since the weekend, with the Mississippi rising all the way to St. Louis by a foot or more. The Ohio is also rising, even past Louisville, by a foot and a half. Predicted for New Madrid on Tuesday is a reading of 33.5; Wednesday, 35.0; and Thursday, 36.0; with the crest reaching 37.5 feet on March 18.

The crest on the Ohio at Paducah, Ky., is 36 feet, staying below the 39 foot flood stage.

Eagleton to keynote

U.S. Sen. Thomas Eagleton of Missouri will be the Keynote Speaker for the 10th District Bootheel Democratic Rally, April 27 at the Ramada Inn.

Democrats from all over the state are expected to attend, according to State Rep. C.F. Cline of Sikeston. In the past, the rally was held only in election years. Plans are to make it an annual event, Cline said.

Sikeston Mayor Frank Ferrell said it will be open to the public. Tickets, costing $10, will be available from chairmen of county committees in about two weeks.

He said other guests at the rally will include U.S. Rep. Bill Burlison of Cape Girardeau, Secretary of State James C. Kirkpatrick, of Windsor, State Treasurer James Spainhower, of Marshall, President Pro Temp of the State Senate William Cason of Clinton, and Speaker of the House Richard Rabbit of St. Louis.

Weather Watch begins

The Sikeston Weather Watch program went into action Saturday under a new format that will hopefully provide better weather protection for the city, according to Gerald Howard, director of the Sikeston Civil Defense System.

The new weather watch program uses police, auxiliary police and firemen as spotters instead of regular citizens.

Howard said the watch will be set up whenever a severe weather warning is issued for the Sikeston area. Watchers will go to six different areas of Sikeston, providing coverage for the whole town. If a severe storm is spotted, local radio stations will be notified so they can warn the public, Howard said. He added that April, May and June are the worst months for storms in the Sikeston area.

Although Saturday's watch worked well, Howard said problems remain to be ironed out. One problem was that there was too much radio traffic, he said.

Members of the watch will meet tonight at the city administrative building to try to work out the difficulties.

Two file for council seat

Only two candidates filed for the April 3 city election, according to John Vaughn, City Clerk. The deadline for filing was Friday at 5 p.m.

Arthur Ziegenhorn, the incumbent, filed for re-election and will be opposed by Max Ellison for a three-year term.

Polling places have been announced as follows:

Ward 1, Precinct 1, SeMo Motor Co., 417 N. Main; War 1 Precinct 2, Ethridge Tire Co., 506 N. Main; Ward 2, Precinct 1, Sonny Presley Chevrolet, 127 W. Center; Ward 2, Precinct 2, Lincoln School.

Ward 3, Precinct 1, Sikeston Activity Center, 201 S. Kingshighway; Ward 3, Precinct 2, Lewis Furniture Co., 650 W. Malone; Ward 4, Precinct 1, Armory Building, 300 S. Main; Ward 4, Precinct 2:, Imperial Bowling Lanes, 1601 E. Malone Ave.

For those of us living closely with agribusiness in this area, it is interesting to note that Dr. George V. Mann of the Department of Biochemistry, Vanderbilt University School of Medicine, discussing diet and health, has said, "... I feel intensely that the 'other side' of the diet- heart controversy has not been adequately heard ..." Dr. Mann was critical of the relentless campaign damning meat, eggs and milk "... with puny evidence bucked up by dramatic Madison Avenue techniques."

Dr. Mann was also critical of segments of the food industry which he feels have not responded as they should: "I do not know who is responsible for the possum tactics of those assaulted industries, but I know as a nutritionist that the industry is allowing a few adventurists in science ... to sack the basis for the best diet in human history. One day -- too late, I fear -- this chapter in human absurdity will be written out." Dr. Mann went on to recommend strongly "suitable mechanisms" for testing prevailing hupotheses having to do with diet and heart disease.

Dr. Mann call for national and international research programs that can one day find answers to the relationship between diet and health. And surely these answers can help convince normal people the importance of enjoying, in moderation, the abundance of basic foods that modern agriculture has made available to U. S. citizens and the world.

Everyone travels these days. We're constantly off to more exotic corners of the world, and soon maybe the moon. The solution: chose a gentle effective chewing gum antacid that acts quickly and keeps you on the move. And the moral: Be fair to your stomach and it will be fair to you.

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

The auto is now a bigger cause of mortality among deer than people. It is estimated that 120,000 deer and 1,200 other big game animals are killed in highway traffic mishaps each year. That's more than twice the toll of human lives.

Your fingernails are made of the same kind of material as your hair. So are the hoofs of animals, the claws of birds, and the scales of snakes.

People are more likely to be fatally violent against themselves than anyone else. A 30-year study in Cleveland found that 4,065 persons died by homicide during that time and an additional 5,807 committed suicide. But during those three decades the homicide rate rose by more than 500 per cent, from 7 per hundred thousand people in 1940 to 38 per hundred thousand in 1970.

Two days later a second letter arrived at the home office: "I cum hear and I sole them half a milyon," it said. Drug experts in law enforcement, treatment and rehabilitation can argue with graphs that their progress would look better if only they had more funding. Unfortunately, graphs on the effects of education (those that exist— are written in the budding language of psychometrics, unintelligible to all but a few. If we weren't preoccupied with quick provable results, we might see that our task is not so much to catch and treat, but to prevent.

Richard Earle, the new President of the National Coordinating Council on Drug Education, testified to the above thesis in a hearing on national drug policy before the Democratic Party Platform Committee. He stated the facts clearly: "It costs the Federal Government $18,750 to make each narcotics arrest (excluding state and local costs) and approximately $8,500 per year to rehabilitate an addict; or $1,500 to maintain him on methadone. But to prevent him from ever becoming an addict, to educate and arm him against drug temptation, we spend a comparative pittance: about 26 cents per capita per year, to reach children 12 years old and under."

Mr. Earle pointed out that amplified drug education should first be directed toward the school administration and curriculum advisors. Schools should learn and then implement the thought that drugology is not a course, but an incidental part of many courses.

But it was not just for improved education in the schools that Earle made his plea. Drug problems cannot be graphically proven to begin in the home; yet the solutions are within the family. "And so, that is where the money and dedication and planning must be focused."

ADVERTISING....WHAT IS IT?

THE FOLLOWING WORDS of wisdom come from Fairfax M. Cone, chairman of the executive committee, Foote, Cone & Belding, Chicago.

Advertising is the business, or the art, if you please, of telling someone something that should be important to him. It is a substitute for talking to someone.

It is the primary requirement of advertising to be clear, clear as to exactly waht the proposition is.

If it isn't clear, and clear at a glance or a whisper, very few people will take the time or the effort to try to figure it out.

The second essential of advertising is that what must be clear must also be important. The proposition must have value.

Third, the proposition (the promise) that is both clear and important must also have a personal appeal. It should be beamed at its logical prospects; no one else matters.

Fourth, the distinction in good advertising expresses the personality of the advertisers; for a promise is only as good as its maker.

Finally, a good advertisement demands action It asks for an order, or it exacts a mental pledge.

Altogether these things define a desirable advertisement as one that will command attention but never be offensive.

It will be reasonable, but never dull.

It will be original, but never self- conscious.

It will be imaginative, but never misleading.

And because of what it is and what it is not, a properly prepared advertisement will always be convincing and it will make people act.

This, incidentally, is all that I know about advertising.

DON'T MARCH BACKWARD

A curious transition has been taking place in both public and private attitudes toward our way of life in the United States. Under the guise of improving physical health, quality of life and the environment in which we live, a drive is on to reduce the availability or utilization of the very things that for centuries were considered the ultimate goals of a better life. Even the abundance of good food is now considered the ultimate goals of a better life.

This drive toward regression is bound, sooner or later, either through regulation or other forms of coercion, to cause a sort of "hardening of the arteries" of the production and marketing system that heretofore has operated on the traditional premise that people will demand more and better things in the future. Normal, healthy people are told, for example, that they should eliminate certain items from their diet in anticipation of heart attacks or some other disability -- although there is abundant scientific evidence that such sacrifice is neither necessary nor likely heathful. In an effort to help counteract rising confusion over good -- what to eat -- the food industry is launching a long- range program to encourage people to eat normally of the four basic food groups -- meat, fish and poultry; fruits and vegetables; dairy products; and breads and cerals. The National Dairy Council is one of the research and educational organizations charged with the task of helping to present the nutrition story in which dairy organizations charged with the task of helping to presen the nutrition story in which dairy products have an important place. Normally healthy people need milk and milk products just as they need the other foods that make up a balanced diet.

It is hard to see how the quality of life or the health of the individual can be improved by turning away from the bounty that has been given to us by the most efficient food production and marketing system ever known. In food, as in everything else, a healthy and wholesome future lies in the wise use of that which science and technology have given to us.

INDUSTRY ADOPTS GUIDELINES FOR CHILDREN'S TV

Guidelines for television advertising to children have been adopted by the Association of National Advertisers to help stimulate high standards of advertising and eliminate practices which might be even remotely considered distasteful, misleading or unduly "high-pressure."

The guidelines are based on the following four principles:

Since young children have limited capabilities for discerning the credibility of what they see, they pose a special responsibility for advertisers and broadcasters alike to protect them from their own susceptibilities.

Recognizing that children are limited in their ability to distinguish between fact and fantasy, care should be taken not to stimulate (directly or by implication) unreasonable expectations of performance.

Because of the special nature of the children's audience, extra care should be taken to communicate product information in a truthful and tasteful manner.

Advertising should help develop social standards that are generally regarded as positive and beneficial.

STOP BEING FUNNY

The old saying that "people are funny" was never truer than it is today. Never were there so many millions asking for public charity doled out to them under a pleasing variety of titles. We overlook the fact that government has no money to give that it does not first take from its citizens in taxes, or higher and higher public debt. The latter today requires the payment of over $20 billion a year in interest charges alone.

No matter what the government, federal, state or local is giving you, don't think you are not paying for it. We are paying for exhorbitant government spending and debt in inflated prices and the reduced value and buying power of the dollar. We are paying for it in everything we eat, wear and use. The amount of taxes withheld from the average income would have paid for a home not so long ago. What used to be put into savings, now goes to the tax collector, and the one who earned it never sees it.

The people will have to stop being "funny" if they wish to save their bacon in the U.S. Your savings and your government are being destroyed by those who put politics ahead of fiscal responsibility.

LEARN FROM EXPERIENCE

Theories are interesting and can be useful for all manner of human endeavor. In the ancient world, theories were dreamed up and accepted or rejected without much concern with how they worked out in practical experience. The essence of the so- called "scientific method," which is a rather recent human invention, was to check theories against experiments and experience to see if they were valid.

Now we seem to be drifting backward into the errors of the ancient world and of the Middle Ages, when facts were ignored in favor of theories no matter how strongly experience proved the facts to be in error. Marxism-communism- socialism and all their off- shoots claim to be scientific, but experience proves the opposite. They claim that the theories of Marx are the answer to hunger, poverty and disease.

Marx's theories have been expounded and tested for more than 100 years, but it is the Marxist- communist- socialist governments whose people continue to go hungry, as the false theories of Marx turn food- exporting nations into dull tyrannies which must import food from capitalist farmers.

Good working people of Republic USA have never fallen for the Marxist promises, but they have been betrayed by Marx- oriented leaders, especially those in politics and education. Working people are at last overcoming apathy and trying to turn the tide against crime, communism and inflation, all of which feed on each other and endanger the life of our Republic. We must win this battle. HLH

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Finally Free:
Hoffa's Power Drive Is Smashed

By Victor Riesel

WASHINGTON-- It is the duty, nature and joy of this craft to plug the loopholes of history. So the other day, using a carefully guarded, unlisted number, I telephoned William Leonard Tuab, who fell on his head when he was five, recovered sufficiently to be called an expert international confidence man, and almost flew James Hoffa into Hanoi to pick up a chartered planeload of war prisoners.

A nice lady answered. I asked for "Bill." She checked. Mr. Taub is in Florida, said she in a tone which insinuated--- isn't everybody? I inquired whether Bill had seen Hanoi's Le Duc Tho recently. She just didn't know.

Further pursuit elsewhere revealed there are those who believe William Taub had seen another "snowbird" (Floridian for refugee from winter storms)-- in this case, Jimmy Hoffa.

And why not? Bill Taub is a "Park Avenue" promoter claiming friendship with Presidents, princes and popes. And Jimmy Hoffa is now free of the U.S. Board of Parole. He need not report to his probation officer. He can do anything he wishes, ex- convict or not, except "engage in direct or indirecet management of any labor organization prior to March 6, 1980."

He is in the real estate business in New Jersey and Michigan and owns Florida property. He has surveyed Pennsylvania coal fields seeking investments. He has been approached by truck operators seeking him as a partner, according to some of his friends.

But he has said he is unhappy making money. He wants push- button power. He needs the adulation of the roaring throng such as at his 60th birthday party last month.

For weeks now he has brooded and conferred with heads of three law firms. He has said publicly he will launch a drive inside the Teamsters for a return to power. And he has said publicly he wouldn't disturb the incumbent president Frank Fitzsimmons.

He has been told off by Attorney General Richard Kleindienst. The President's restrictions on Hoffa's activities in or near labor "are not negotiable." And the "government will move quickly to enforce all aspects of the conditional commutation in the event that Mr. Hoffa does not abide by the conditions."

The Attorney General has the power to remand Hoffa immediately to any federal penitentiary he (Kleindienst) chooses if Hoffa truly chooses to run a labor organization again.

So it appears Hoffa's parole board docket is closed. This is a long way from the days he apprenticed in leadership under Leon Trotsky's American theoretican Farrell Dobbs in Minneapolis during the '30s.

It is a long way from the days when his approval was needed for multi- million-dollar loans from the billion-dollar Teamsters Central States, Southeast and Southwest Areas Pension Fund, now being probed by a District of Columbia grand jury and a special Internal Revenue Service task force.

With Hoffa's docket closed and some of his gruesomely tough Mafia friends on the outside looking in hungrily, the nation's attention now must swing to the Teamsters and its now fully powerful general president Frank Fitzsimmons. Fitz, as President Nixon and virtually all of us call him, is a long way from his bus- driving days.

Quietly he outmaneuvered the supercharged Hoffa. Fitz now has virtually unanimous support of the 15- man Teamsters International Executive Board.

Not only has he "strategized" to appoint new-breed university men to this board, he has purged some of the old wagon- wheel veterans of Hoffa's day-- such as Boston's Nick Morrissey who got there about the time the bean and the cod did.

Morrissey is one of Hoffa's most dedicated supporters. He fought to get Hoffa out of prison. Now Morrissey has been removed from his well-paying international representative New England post. This is a sign of the times.

A pertinent sign. The Teamsters Brotherhood is the free world's biggest union. Whoever leads it has national and--- in today's multinational climate--- international political clout.

Its influence with President Nixon is unique. This too is pertinent, for the next four years anyway. Fitz is privately angry with other labor leaders who are blasting the President and the latter's economic advisers over Phase Three. Fitz is rallying to the President. Actually, Fitz is ready for a confrontation with some of them, two of whom were Sen. McGovern's most powerful supporters.

Should the attack continue on the President and the intellectual policy- making White House economic quadriad, Fitz will throw the Teamsters' full weight behind Richard Nixon.

As Fitz put it recently: "Fortunately for our organization, we do have access to the chambers where the policy- makers meet. We have their respect and... their promise that we will be listened to when we disagree."

It couldn't have happened if Hoffa's docket hadn't been closed. A new phase, with new faces, has been opened on the labor and political fronts.

Washington Merry - Go - Round

Money, Politics And 'Big John'
By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON-- Debonair, dynamic John Connally has always had an affinity for money and politics. He hasn't always drawn a clear line between the two.

While he was secretary of the treasury, his former law partners filed applications for three national bank charters. All three were approved, more than any other Texas law firm was able to wangle. At least four other bank charters were granted to his political associates.

Connally is now back with his law firm, raking in the green. One of his law partners has boated around Washington that so many corporations are clamoring to get Connally on their boards that he has set a minimum $50,000 fee for the privilege of listing him as a director.

We couldn't reach Connally to ask how much he charges, but a spokesman for his firm denied that the former treasury secretary collects a flat fee. He serves on many boards, the spokesman acknowledged, but any fee would be part of the retainer paid to the firm.

"Connally has gotten us new business," admitted the spokesman. But he insisted it wasn't Connally's political influence that attracted clients. "In the business world today on the highest levels," said the spokesman, "there is a lot of just plain horse trading, putting together mergers, oil consortiums. Connally is a good lawyer, persuasive, immensely knowledgeable, a good horse trader. He brings to the negotiating table a good name and a lot of clout."

Using Connally

The spokesman also denied that Connally intervened while he was at the treasury to help the firm wangle bank charters. "If we were going to use Connally in the role of treasury secretary," explained the spokesman, "there are better ways than bank charters. You can only go to the well and drink so many times."

It remains a fact, however, that the Connally firm-- Vinson, Elkins, Searls and Smith-- arranged charters for banks in Houston, Orange and Raymondville, Texas. The Raymondville charter (for the purpose of forming a holding company) was approved in a record three days after the application was filed.

Connally's former press secretary, Mike Myers, also was granted a charter for the Love Field National Bank in Dallas. Connally and Myers were former partners in the Trini's Mexican Restaurant chain and are still associated in a real estate development in Fort Worth.

The name of another close associate, Robert Strauss, now Democratic national chairman, appeared on an application to charter the Town North National Bank in Dallas. An earlier application, filed in 1970 before Connally became secretary, was disapproved. But after Strauss joined the applicants and Connally took charge of the treasury, the charter was approved.

Two other Connally loyalists, Tom W. Miller, son of a former Austin mayor, and Horace Hall, a power in Laredo, were involved in successful applications for banks in Roundrock and Laredo, Texas, respectively.

Connally's Wealth

"Big John," as Connally is often called by his associates, has come a long way since he first broke into Texas politics in the 1940s. He came out of rural Texas, with the taste of poverty still in his mouth. He made a name for himself as the late Lyndon Johnson's political protege.

This opened the backrooms of the Texas oil millionaires for him and he caught the fancy of the late oil tycoon Sid Richardson; Oil and politics mixed well for Connally, who acquired the same smooth quality as the oils he promoted and quickly wound up as a millionaire himself.

Those privy to the smoke-filled backrooms say it was his oil credentials as much as his political credentials that got him appointed secretary of the navy under John Kennedy and later secretary of the treasury under Richard Nixon. The oil industry has a big stake in naval oil reserves and perhaps an even greater interest in favorable treasury rulings.

Footnote: Both Myers and Strauss denied that Connally had helped them get bank charters. A treasury spokesman said the comptroller of the currency approved all bank charters and the secretary "has no part in the decision- making process." The remarkable success of Connally's law partners and political cronies during his tenure, the spokesman indicated, was merely a coincidence.

Missing Men

Investigating teams, operating out of Nakhon Phanom, Thailand, just across the border from Laos, are scouring intelligence reports and running down leads for any trace of the American servicemen who are still missing in Indochina.

The U.S. base at Nakhon Phanom was turned into an intelligence- communications complex during the fighting in Vietnam. The sophisticated equipment, including a giant computer, has been put at the disposal of the investigating teams.

Five die in Missouri traffic accidents

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

At least five persons died in Missouri traffic accidents over the weekend.

A Waukee, Iowa man, Joe Reagan, 35, died Sunday in a Des Moines hospital of injuries suffered Saturday in a two-car crash on Highway 46 near Grant City, in north central Missouri.

Billy Gene Hood, 19, Aurora, Mo., died in a one-car accident on a Lawrence County road about three miles west of Marionville Sunday.

Grenell Steelman, 45, Salem, was killed when he was hit by a car as he pushed a stalled pickup truck on Missouri 19 near Salem Sunday.

Killed Saturday:

William M. Wolfe, 39, Bates City, Mo., in a two-car crash on U.S. 50 near Warrensburg.

Joseph Gavas Jr., 26, Ash Grove, Mo., when his car ran off Missouri 266 and slammed into a tree about six miles west

Optimism expressed on funding of bus system

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Legislators from both Missouri and Illinois expressed optimism Sunday that their states would furnish the faltering Bi-State Transit System with enough money to avert the April 1 shutdown of bus service in the St. Louis area.

Rep. Richard Rabbitt, D-St. Louis, speaker of the Missouri House, said he is hopeful that action will be completed this week on a bill to appropriate $215,000 for the financially troubled bus system. That amount has been approved by the Senate Appropriations Committee.

On the other side of the river, Sen. William Harris, R-Pontiac, president of the Illinois senate, said he could "promise" that a bill including $530,000 for the bus lines will be approved before the week is out.

Officials of the Bi-State Development Agency said the total $745,000 would be enough to continue transit operations through June 30, the end of the Bi-State fiscal year.

Last Satureay, however the Bi-State board of commissioners took a precaution in case the necessary funds are not forthcoming and set April 1 as the official date for ceasing operations.

Edward J. Delmore Jr., board chairman, said if the system is forced to shutdown, about 1,500 employes will be put out of work.

The board's action Saturday did leave open the possibility that if only one state furnishes money for continuation of transit services, the buses could continue operating there and cease operation in the other state.

School teacher charged

CREVE COEUR, Mo. (AP) — A sixth-grade school teacher was charged with two counts of first-degree murder Sunday in connection with the shotgun slaying of two St. Louis County business executives late Saturday night.

Bobby Ray Speedy, 39, of St. Ann was charged with the murders of James Gordon Meeks, 53, and Clark Milo Brown, 58, during a dinner party at Meeks' apartment, just north of this west St. Louis suburb. Both men were executives with the Metal Goods Division of the Alcan Aluminum Corp.

Magistrate Richard T. Enright set bond at $75,000 for Speedy, a teacher at Larimore School in the Hazelwood School District.

According to police, Meeks and his five guests, who included Brown and Speedy's former wife Judy Ann Speedy, were seated around the dinner table when a man with a 16 guage shotgun burst into the room.

The gunman called Meeks a vulgar name and shot him as he rose from his chair, police said. He then turned the gun on Brown and killed him.

Brown's daughter Barbara said the assailant leveled the shotgun at a third man, but when he pulled the trigger, the gun apparently misfired.

Miss Brown said Mrs. Speedy ran into a back bedroom when the gunman entered and was calling police when the shootings occurred.

Following the shootings the assailant ran to the back bedroom where Mrs. Speedy was, police said, but she was able to get the gun away from him.

A witness said the man then ran to the balcony, jumped and fled in a car.

Police said Speedy surrendered just before midnight and was identified in a police lineup by some of Meeks' guests.

Mrs. Speedy said she was divorced from her husband last June after 18 years of marriage.

A spokesman at the Hazelwood School District said Speedy was a respected teacher.

What's the law?

The case of the religious boss

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Harvey, honestly and truly, was a very religious man. And one of his strongest religious convictions, unfortunately, was that it was wrong for him, or anyone else for that matter, to have anything to do with labor unions. Since Harvey owned and operated a small factory, this presented somewhat of a problem, particularly since his employes wanted to negotiate a union contract with him.

Totally frustrated by Harvey's repeated refusal to have anything to do with a union, his employes finally started a proceeding against him for refusing to bargain with them "in good faith" as the law required.

"It's unbelieveable," the employes complained. "As soon as Harvey hears the word 'union,' he looks up to heaven like the devil is after him with a pitchfork."

"What do they want from me?" retorted Harvey. "I can't bargain with them 'in good faith' because, for religious reasons, I don't believe in the law requiring it. And to force me to bargain with a union would be to violate my Constitutional freedom of religion. Consequently, they've got to let me be."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you require religious Harvey to sit down and bargain with the union?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held that the law requiring collective bargaining is directed at business corporations and not against religious observances. An employer is not required to believe in the law, concluded the judge, just to comply with it.

Poker-playing husband misses birth

Dear Ann Landers: What do you think of a husband who will not leave the dice table when his wife phones him and says her labor pains have started? This is what happened to my sister and I am so mad at that bum I could knock his fat head off.

I was at her house at the time and the poor kid was so upset she handed me the phone. I said, "Look, Barney, you ought to come home and drive Hazel to the hospital. I haven't got a car or I'd take her. Besides, it's your place." Do you know what he said, Ann? "I'm in the middle of a hot streak and I'm going to stay here and make the kid's first year of college."

So I called a taxi. When the driver saw my sister he said, "I ain't no doctor and I take no responsibility." It was some wild ride. He was so anxious to get us out of his cab we almost had an accident.

When we got to the hospital my poor sister said, "I feel like an unwed mother. I'll bet they don't believe I'm married."

The baby was born an hour later--- a beautiful nine- pound boy--- and Barney was nowhere in sight. When they brought Hazel out of the delivery room she was out like a light.

The next morning I get a call from Hazel saying Barney was so wonderul. He was at her bed when she woke up and he handed her $820 in tens and twenties. I don't think he's wonderful at all. I think he's a skunk. What do you think? Please put it in writing.--- Hazel's Sister

Dear Sister: If Hazel thinks he's wonderful what does it matter what I think? Or you, for that matter. Stop undermining your sister's marriage. I like sugar on my strawberries and some people like sour cream on theirs.

Dear Ann Landers: We've been married 15 years. Our three children are in school all day and for the last two years my wife has spent all her spare time entering contests. She has written poems, slogans and essays and spent a small fortune on junk so she can get the tops of cans, coupons, box tops, bottle caps and assorted things she needs to be a contestant. This is not to mention the money she has spent on writing paper, a typewriter, a $60 dictionary, special ink, crayons, postage, ribbons, and the golderndest odds and ends to make her entries "unusual."

Would you believe that woman has never won a thing? I mean not so much as a candy bar. I can't believer her entries are that bad. In fact, I've seen some and they look pretty good to me.

I'm beginning to think those contests are fakes. I have never known a person who won anything. Have you? Will you please say something about this in your column?--- Booby's Chuck

Dear Chuck: Some contests are semi- fake, but most of them are on the level. They do give prizes and somebody wins them.

Tell Booby that the entries are not always selected on the basis of "originality, creativity, neatness...etc." There are many other considerations. Small town entries have a better chance. It helps if you live in Alaska, Montana or Nevada. The judges favor people from sparsely populated areas. Tell Booby not to become discouraged. It's a nice hobby.

Confidential to How Can I Go On?: You can because you must. Remember: Life is hard--- by the yard. But by the inch--- it's a cinch.

Even if drinking is the "in" thing in your crowd, it needn't crowd you out. Learn the facts from Ann Landers' booklet, "Booze And You--- For Teen-Agers Only." Send 35c in coin and a long, self- addressed, stamped envelope to this newspaper with your request.

Plan before you shop

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first of a series of articles on how to save money while shopping for food.)

By PAT GROJEAN

Stretching today's devalued dollar to provide nutritious meals for your family on a low cost basis is a difficult task. Food is one of the most important items for the family's health and well-being. With planning and careful shopping, there is a way to stretch the food dollar and still enjoy nutritionally balanced meals.

The amount of money available to spend on food varies with the size of income. No matter what the family income is, the homemaker must still provide good meals for her family.

Many women want to stretch their food budgets but, at the same time, they worry about cutting costs that might lead to a loss of both variety and nutritional value in the family meals.

One of the first requirements in the quest to save money is to know your family's needs. Decide on the purpose of each item you are going to buy and how it is to be used. Don't buy any more than your family needs.

Next, make a general plan of your family's meals for the week. Be sure to include foods from the basic four groups: meat, fish and poultry; fruits and vegetables; dairy products; breads and cereals. If you shop once a week, buy only what you need.

Try planning a week's menus around the week's specials at a couple of nearby markets. For this to be effective, you must know the normal price of the items you are going to buy.

Another important step in saving money is to use the food advertisements in the newspaper. Know how to spot a bargain. To be worthwhile, a bargain must not only save you money, but must be practical and needed. Rather than running from store to store to get bargains, use one or two stores that are near each other. What you waste in time and gasoline may not really make up the difference unless it is right on your way.

The next step in saving money is to check the foods you have on hand that can be used in your loosely drawn menu plan for the week. Using what you have on hand can save money.

Use the older, perishable foods first, before they go to waste.

Plan to buy only the amount you need in order to avoid unwanted and often uneaten leftovers. Make a note of the foods your family likes and dislikes and those they leave uneaten.

Reduce the amount of low-nutrition and high-calorie foods on your shopping list.

Be sure to prepare a list before you shop. Stick to that list and do not be tempted by impulse buying. Some experts say that consumers can save as much as 25 per cent by avoiding impulse buying. It may not be quite that much, but it will make a difference.

Compare local stores for quality and price, then choose the one that best fits your needs. Consider both factors.

Once you make your shopping list, stick to it, only yielding to the genuine, unexpected bargains. It is recommended that you keep a small notebook, listing food items, brands and prices to familiarize yourself with current food prices and to avoid mistaking a bargain for something the store just decided to advertise that week. This will have to be kept up to date though.

Finally, with a list and a plan, try to limit your shopping to just one trip a week.

Avoid impulse buying. One way to do this is to be sure you have eaten before you go. You are more likely to pick up something you don't need when you are hungry. Another way is to stick to your shopping list.

Shopping with children will also add extras to your grocery car. And the longer you stay in the store, the more apt you are to buy something not on the list.

Know how much an item actually costs. Figure the cost per serving, not just the cost per ounce or pound.

Know how to do it yourself. Buying milk in a supermarket, rather than having it delivered may result in substantial savings. Avoid convenience foods, or foods with a built-in maid service. For example, avoid presugared cereals, you can add the sugar yourself and save money.

With careful planning and shopping, a consumer can save money on food purchases and, at the same time, provide nutritious meals for the family. Next in the series will be tips for use as you shop for food.

Insightful comments on History

IN THE LIGHT OF HISTORY. By J.H. Plumb. Houghton, Mifflin. 263 Pages. $6.95.

There is a wide variety of topics in this collection of essays, book reviews and articles by a prominent historian — English, but well-acquainted with America — who specializes in the 18th century.

The book's Part One is devoted to that century and ranges from such subjects as Henry Fielding, Edmund Burke and "British Attitudes to the American Revolution" to such offbeat things as "The Royal Porcelain Craze." It is for browsing by readers with a taste for history.

Part Two, which has the same title as the book, puts into perspective some of today's phenomena as the historian sees them. A piece on "Secular Heretics," for example, contrasts modern hippies with their counterparts in other generations and other centuries. The same is true of women's lib, fads in clothing and attitudes toward death

It also has a comment on riots in the city, and "A Walk in Detroit" is a perceptive observation on urban problems. "The Anarchy of Art" is an exceptionally clear-eyed overview of modern art. Part Two demonstrates Plumb's wit and insight.

Part Three, "Other Times, Other Places," contains an article on Pepys, a piece on the hypocrisy of the outwardly prudish Victorian period, and a lucid explanation of what made the Edwardians what they were.

Well worth reading.

Garner calls for new energy policy

Acknowledging the fact that the energy problem faced by this country has reached the critical stage, a major oil company spokesman recently called for sound national energy policies to keep up with increasing demands for oil and gas and for energy conservation both at home and at work.

In a speech before the Kiwanis of Sikeston, Walt Garner, District Manager for Amoco Oil Company, said a new national energy policy is needed if the petroleum industry is to cope with the current supply/ demand imbalance.

Garner told his audience that such a policy should be designed to meet the public's desire for both a cleaner, healthier environment and an ample supply of energy.

"This twin objective is possible," he said, "but only if we carefully balance costs against benefits and not go all-out for one while paying too little attention to the other."

Illustrating his talk with color slides, Garner pointed out that with only one-seventeenth of the world's population, Americans consume about one- third of the world's energy. And more than three- fourths of that energy is supplied by petroleum -- 43 per cent by oil and 33 per cent by gas.

"The problem lies in the fact that by 1985, we'll be using energy at about double today's rate -- and by 2000, the demand may well be three times what it is now," he stated. "Of this vastly expanded demand, oil and gas will still have to supply about 59 per cent."

"There is no short- term way to reverse the trend of declining petroleum reserves," Garner added. "So we will have to make more use of oil imports in the immediate future. It's our only alternative."

He said the U.S. already imports about one- quarter of the oil it uses and by 1985 "we'll be importing as much as half." But factors such as cost, uncertainty of supply (due to political uncertainty affecting overseas supply) and huge balance of payments problems make complete dependence on oil imports undesirable.

Garner urged the Kiwanis to help alleviate the energy proglem by conserving heat at home and at work.

"Keeping thermostats at 70 degrees during the day -- and down to 60 for eight hours at night -- can save as much as 10 per cent of your fuel and your fuel bill," he said. "Another way to help is to make sure that your heating plant is working properly. Whatever fuel you burn, it takes less if the furnace is operating efficiently."

Garner also cited several other ways to conserve energy such as installing storm windows and insulation, weatherstripping badly- fitting windows, sealing off cracks, and closing off rooms that are unused.

"Everyone has a stake in helping to alleviate the energy crunch and averting even more serious crises in the future," he maintained. "If everyone saves a little, no one will go without."

Scotland Yard investigates Bermuda murder

HAMILTON, Bermuda (AP) — More Scotland Yard detectives were due in Bermuda today to join the investigation of the murder of the island's British governor and his aidede-camp. Police said they were questioning a number of persons but had made no arrests.

Gov. Sir Richard Sharples, 57, and Capt. Hugh Sayers, 25, were shot shortly before midnight Saturday. Their bodies were found outside the front door of Government House, the governor's residence.

Police said they did not know how many gunmen were involved in the slayings, which occurred after a small dinner party while the men were walking Sharples' pet great Dane, Horsa. The dog also was killed.

There were no security measures in effect at the time for the 15 acre park that surrounds the residence about a mile from Hamilton. Only the usual unarmed guard was on duty at the mansion.

A state of emergency was declared immediately, giving police the power to keep suspects from leaving the island. It appeared to have virtually no effect on the thousands of tourists jamming hotels.

Korean War prisoner freed

CLARK AIR BASE, Philippines (AP) — John T. Downey, the last American prisoner of the Korean War, was freed from China today and flew home to see his seriously ill mother in Connecticut.

Peking let the CIA operative go after an appeal from President Nixon that he be allowed to join his 75-year-old mother, Mary Downey of New Britain. His release had been expected as a result of the visits to Peking by Nixon and Henry A. Kissinger but not until later this year. The other two Americans known to be held in China, Air Force Maj. Philip E. Smith and Lt. Cmdr. Robert J. Flynn, are scheduled to be freed on Thursday. Downey told Red Cross representatives that he was in the same cell block with them and both appeared to be in "excellent spirits and health."

Both Smith and Flynn were shot down on missions in Vietnam when they strayed over China. Downey, who has spent nearly 21 of his 42 years in Chinese prisons, looked pale but smiled continuously when he arrived at Clark Air Base from Hong Kong. He told newsmen he was "fine."

At Clark he found his brother William, a New York attorney, who arrived several hours earlier.

"I just want to say how grateful I am for being released," Downey told newsmen. "And I appreciate the Chinese government letting me go at this time, and President Nixon for his efforts on my behalf, and Dr. Kissinger. I'm very pleased to be out; and at the same time, I'm very anxious to get home and see my mother."

William Downey said a doctor had examined his brother on the flight from Hong Kong and "he checks out fine on a preliminary examination. He certainly feels and looks good."

The two brothers took off in a special C141 medical evacuation transport at 1:42 a.m. EST for Elmendorf Air Base in Alaska. From there, they were to fly to either Hartford, Conn., or Westover Air Base in Massachusetts.

Downey's mother, who visited him a number of times in Peking, suffered a stroke last Wednesday. She regained consciousness Sunday, but a spokesman at New Britain General Hospital said her condition still was critical.

Peking's Hsinhua news agency made a brief announcement of Downey's release shortly after he arrived in Hong Kong: "Considering that Downey confessed his crime and his behavior was not bad while serving his term, China's organs of dictatorship decided to grant him leniency and release him immediately." There was no reference to Downey's mother or President Nixon's request.

A Red Cross official Eugene D. Guy, crossed the border at Hong Kong to greet Downey and escort him across the Lo Wu Bridge. Guy handed the Chinese a receipt that said the American people were most appreciative of China's "humanitarian action" in freeing Downey.

A British medical officer who accompanied the reception team said Downey "talked normally and, although he was somewhat quiet, he seemed quite happy," it said.

Downey told them he had learned three days ago from the Chinese of his release.

"I feel very fit," he said.

James E. Bowling of St. Louis, Mo., a Red Cross representative who accompanied Downey to the Philippines, said he was "very steady and very well composed" when they met in Hong Kong, his handshake was firm and he walked briskly.

"He also had a sharp mind," said Bowling.

The flight was Downey's first aboard a jet plane, and Bowling said he asked questions about it. Bowling said Downey did not inquire about Fecteau or discuss his prison life except to say he kept fit by jogging.

Downey was sent six pink roses by an American tourist, Jan Nyes of Hartford, Conn. Bowling said Miss Nyes heard about Downey's release and sent the roses because they both are from Connecticut.

Downey's release permitted a Red Cross representative to enter the Chinese side of the Hong Kong border for the first time, Bowling said. He said the Red Cross has delivered packages of food and other items to American prisoners in China once a month since 1955. These deliveries have always taken place at the middle of the border bridge.

Harry Walker, who managed the Houston Astros last season, will help the St. Louis Cardinals and their Tulsa farm team in hitting instruction this year.

French voters give Gaullists 5 more years

PARIS (AP) — French voters have given the Gaullists another five years in control of the National Assembly but have reduced the government coalition's majority to less than 60 seats.

Following runoff voting Sunday, returns from 486 of the 490 electoral districts gave the Gaullist coalition 274 seats, the Communist-Socialist alliance 181, the centrist Reform Movement 28 and extreme rightists 3.

The Communist Party won 73 seats, compared with 34 in the last election in 1968, and the Socialists moved up from 57 to 89. The other leftist seats went to splinter parties on the extreme left.

The outcome was much more favorable to the Gaulists than had been expected. President Georges Pompidou was so worried by the strong leftist showing in public opinion polls and the first round of voting last Sunday that he made a lastminute television appeal to the voters Saturday. Pompidou himself was not up for re-election.

The economic achievements of the Gaullists over the past 15 years plus the basic conservatism of many Frenchmen pulled the government through. But the result was a warning that the left's calls for a better deal for the poor and for more equalization of economic gains had sympathetic echoes throughout the country.

"It is correct that these elections reflect a will for renewal by a large number of voters," Premier Pierre Messmer admitted.

The Gaullist majority in the assembly took a monumental dive from the 284-seat margin won in the 1968 landslide. But that occurred after the May student riots scared the French voters badly. The Gaullists could take some comfort from their new majority's being considerably better than the onevote edge they won in the last "normal" elections in 1967.

Significantly, the heaviest losses were suffered by the Union for the Defense of the Republic, the Gaullist party. It fell from 293 seats to 181, making it more dependent on its partners, Finance Minister Valery Giscard d'Estaing's Independent Republicans and Jacques Duhamel's Democratic Center party.

Unemployment payments decline

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Unemployment benefit payments declined 8.7 per cent from January to February, J. R. Kratochvil, assistant director of administration for the Missouri Division of Employment Security announced Thursday.

Unemployment benefit payments to jobless workers for February totaled $8,361,791, Kratochvil said.

He also said the February total was an 11 per cent drop from the same period last year.

Claims for benefits totaled 185,039 in February, compared with 227,760 in January.

Kratochvil said the decrease in claims in February was due partly to good weather conditions in some areas, which permitted construction workers to go back to work.

In addition to the regular program of unemployment insurance benefits the division administers similar federal programs for ex-servicemen and former federal civilian workers.

The average weekly benefit check for the unemployment program was $52.97 in February.

Four banking bills pass senate

JEFFERSON CITY —Although it is too early to count the final score, one of the big point-getters in this 77th session of the Missouri General Assembly has been the banking industry.

Four bills backed by the Missouri Bankers Association (MBA) have passed the Senate and are awaiting House action.

The first such bill is a proposal favored by State Treasurer James Spainhower which would allow banks to pay higher interest rates on idle state funds. Currently, the state gets more interest on funds invested in U. S. Treasury notes. Spainhower says he would prefer to leave Missouri's money in Missouri, and would invest state money in Missouri banks if they raise their interest rates to match the Treasury notes.

The Senate passed the bill without objection, and it is expected to have an easy time in the House.

Another bill which has passed the Senate is sponsored by Sen. Richard Webster (R-Carthage) and would amend the times sales act on automobiles and motor homes. Webster's bill extends the act to cover farm equipment, and would permit banks to make loans at the same rate as car dealers, which are considerably higher than present rates now charged by banks.

A bill which would allow small loan companies to raise the amount of interest charged on loans of more than $500 from eight to 27 per cent had a far more difficult time getting through the Senate. It passed by a vote of 17-14, and may run into trouble in the House.

Webster, who also sponsored this bill, argued that due to the inflation of the past 20 years, the increase was justified in order to keep people from going to "loan sharks" who may charge 100 per cent or more.

He was opposed by Senators who said the "little man" would suffer from the bill because persons who use small loan companies are generally those who can least afford to pay higher interest rates.

The small loan companies can charge 27 per cent interest on loans of $500 or less at the present time.

The fourth bill favored by the MBA is another extension of what may or may not be "branch banking" in Missouri. The bill permits the "drive-in facilities" of banks to make loans, and thereby puts them on an almost equal basis with the main banking offices. The only function not permitted drive-in banks would be setting up trust agreements.

The development of drive-in facilities from being a window in the side of the main bank to separate - and almost-equal institutions perhaps miles from the main bank is the story of slow and persistent efforts by banking lobbyists in the state legislature.

In 1958, Missouri voters overwhelmingly defeated a constitutional amendment which would haver permitted a bank to operate one or more branches in the city or county where the main bank is located.

Opponents of branch banking said at that time they were not against allowing banks to increase their service to customers and communities, but against concentrating the power of the state's finances in the hands of a few.

So those who favored branch banking stopped calling it "branch banking". Instead, they concentrated on the drive-in facilities, which were first permitted in 1959. At that time, a bank could operate only one facility, and it had to be within 1,000 yards of the main bank. Its functions were limited to accepting and withdrawing deposits, making change, and cashing checks.

In later years, they were permitted to handle safe deposit box operations and to accept loan payments. In 1971, the Legislature increased the maximum distance from the bank to 4,000 yards.

Last year, the General Assembly authorized the bank to have as many as two facilities, and removed the distance restriction entirely.

The bill has passed the Senate, and its sponsor, Sen. Albert Spradling, says prospects for House passage are "excellent".

Spradling denies that the bill is designed to institute branch banking. Rather, he says, the bill is necessary to place independent bankers on the same footing as bank holding companies. He explained that independent bankers are at a disadvantage in competing with the holding companies which control the resources of several banks, and can shift resources around where they are needed.

A Democrat from Cape Girardeau, Spradling chairman of the Farmers and Merchants Banks there, and holds stock in two other southeast Missouri banks.

Smith named SHS grid coach

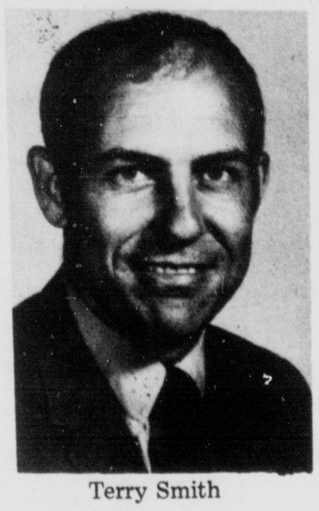
Terry Smith, head football coach for the past five years at Perryville High School and one of Southeast Missouri's most respected prep gridiron coaches, will try to revive Sikeston High School's sputtering gridiron hopes next season when the 31-year old University of Arkansas graduate takes over control of the Bulldog grid program.

Smith replaces Pete Cirrintano, who resigned after the 1972 season to return to college to complete work on his master's degree. Sikeston fared well under Cirrintano's tutelage and fashioned a 3-7 season log although being hampered by injuries all season.

Cirrintano took over from Bill Friday, who stepped down to take an administrative position after three years as SHS head coach.

Sikeston gridiron clubs won only one game against Smith's teams at Perryville during his five year tenure, beating the Pirates on a late score in 1969.

Perryville has had one of the most respected high school football teams in the Bootheel region during the five years in which Smith was coach, posting a 33-14 record, including a share of the 1968 Northern Division title and a Class AAA state championship.



Terry Smith

Coach Smith's teams at Perryville and at Prairie Grove and Lewisville, Ark., where he coached before coming to the Bootheel, have been noted for hard hitting and steady play.

The courteous, soft-spoken coach has fashioned 8-1 records the past two seasons at Perryville, but faces a challenging task at SHS where he comes in without any junior high football training experience behind his ninth, 10, 11th and 12th graders. The Junior high program will be reinstated at SHS next season.

"We'll have a summer clinic the last two weeks of July," Coach Smith told The Daily Standard today.

A physical fitness program for all Sikeston students is planned for June.

Coach Smith and his wife Paula, along with 5-year -old son, Terry Jr., and 2- year- old daughter, Stephanie, hope to move to Sikeston as soon as the school year is completed at Perryville.

Northeast Nodaway claims girls title

MARRYVILLE, Mo. (AP) — Two weeks ago today, 184 teams from across the state begin play in the first girls basketball playoffs in the history of the Missouri State High School Activities Assn, but when the finals ended here Saturday the winner had to go only 10 miles to reach home.

Northeast Nodaway of Ravenwood closed out a perfect 31-0 season and claimed its 75th victory in 76 starts over a three year period by trimming South Shelby, 41-35, in the championship game at Northwest Missouri State.

Wheeling, which saw a twoyear winning steak of 35 games halted with a semifinal loss to South Shelby, came back to take third place with a 43-30 triumph over Cass Midway.

Northeast Nodaway outscored Shelby, 15-5, in the third quarter to snap an 18-all halftime deadlock and take command. Janet McCrorey led a balanced attack for the winners with 14 points and Nacy Rutter's 19 points topped South Shelby. Ravenwood is 10 miles east of Maryville.

South Shelby had made it 21 straight victories with the 45-34 nod over Wheeling Friday night and bowed out 23-3.

The title route for the Ravenwood club included the championship of the Burlington Junction regional, a 44-31 conquest of Cainsville in the quarterfinals and a 40-36 decision over Cass Midway in the semis.

Cass Midway had won 40 straight to that point and wound up 20-2. The consolation victory gave Wheeling a final 31-1 reading.

Brown went out swinging

COLUMBIA, Mo. — Missouri University's all-time leading basketball scorer, John Brown, literally went out swinging in his final appearance before the home town folks Saturday afternoon.

The big 6-foot-8 Mizzou center was ejected from the game, which was proclaimed John Brown day, with 16:38 to play after engaging in a brief game of fist-a- cuffs with Nebraska's Don Jackson.

The 12th rated Tigers won the Big Eight Conference finale, dropping Nebraska 86-70 behind the leadership of junior reserve Gary Link, who scored 21 points for Mizzou.

But as far as most Missouri fans, including coach Norm Stewart, were concerned, the game was appraently a loser. Brown suffered an injured ear in the fracus.

The fight, an exchange of a few random blows, lasted less than four seconds, and came at the Missouri free throw line seconds after Jackson had pumped in a turn around jumper over the out- stretched arms of Brown. Nebraska coach Joe Cipriano explained the situation that brought on the incident this way: "The way I hear it, Jackson apparently told Brown he didn't like the way he combed his hair."

Coach Cipriano was pleased with the situation, as he noted: "I would gladly exchange a sophomore for an All- American anytime."

But the incident gave Mizzou the spark it needed to pull away from the pesky Cornhuskers, who trailed the Tigers by one five points at the time of the mishap.

The Tigers quickly pulled away behind Link and the out- side shooting of Mike Jeffries and Al Eberhard, who added 18 and 17 points respectively to the Mizzou offense. Brown had 14 points at the time of departure.

Mizzou heads for New York and the National Invitational Basketball tournament, playing Massachusetts Saturday night at 6 p.m. in Madison Square Garden.

Kansas State and Missouri once again are headed for post-season basketball play, but there is only next season to consider now for the other members of the Big Eight Conference.

Kansas State put the finishing touches on its second straight league title and third in four seasons Saturday night by rocking one-time contender Colorado, 76-66. That earned Jack Hartman's Wildcats a 12-2 Big Eight finish, the same as last year.

The 'Cats improved their over-all record from 19-9 to 22-4. "I'll take that any time," Hartman beamed as 11th-ranked K-State turned its attention to Southwest Louisiana, 24-3, in the semifinals of the Midwest NCAA regional Thursday at Houston.

Mizzou and Colorado's junior dominated Cinderella club wound up deadlocked for the Big Eight's runner-up slot at 95 when the Tigers dismantled Nebraska, 86-70, following Colorado's loss Saturday.

Oklahoma, another young team in a season where Big Eight clubs led by undergraduates were the rule rather than the exception, wrapped up fourth place with an 8-6 loop mark by turning back Oklahoma State, 86-78.

And Iowa State, up and down after leading the league in the early going, settled alone into fifth place at 7-7 by handing former power Kansas an 89-65 reversal.

That left Nebraska and Kansas tied for sixth with 4-10 marks after they shared fourth (at 7-7 a year ago. Oklahoma State again finished last at 3-11.

Two weeks ago it appeared the Colorado-KSU confrontation at Manhattan Saturday might decide the title on the last night of the season. But the Buffs lost to OU and Oklahoma State during one weekend road trip, ending their hopes.

Colorado appeared on the verge of an upset against the 'Cats before a sellout crowd of 12,500 in Ahearn Fieldhouse. Down only 42-40 at halftime, the Buffs nudged within one at 59-58.

But junior guard Lon Kruger popped two jumpers and drove for another basket as the second half opened while the visitors were going scoreless for almost five and a half minutes, missing 11 shots during the spell.

Kruger wound up with 17 points, Ernie Kuysner added 15, Steve Mitchell, 14, reserve Doug Snider 11 and Larry Williams 10. That balance was too much for Buffs, despite a season-high 24 points from Steve Aaker; Scott Wedman and Jerome Wright had 14 and 12, respectively.

Oklahoma made it 14 straight victories at home in cuffing OSU. The streak includes all 12 home games this season, the first time since 1929 the Sooners have gone unbeaten in Norman.

John MacLeod's squad hit 63 per cent from the field in building a 54-43 halftime bulge and only the Cowboys' free throws, 15 of 18 to OU's 2 of 4 by intermission, kept OSU in the game.

For the Sooners, finishing 18-8, sophomore Mike McCurdy canned 20 points, junior Tom Holland 19, junior Ted Evans 16 and freshman John Breathwit 14.

The Pokes, 7-19, got 21 points from junior Kevin Fitzgerald and 18 by soph K. C. Kincaide.

Iowa State put on a demonstration of the clinging defense that is the trademark of Maury John teams in pinning Kansas with its worst loss ever to a Cyclone team, and leaving KU boss Ted Owens with his worst record (8-18) since he assumed the reins in 1964.

"We played with great determination and intensity," John said, "and played the belly-button defense the way our coaching staff has wanted..."

Owens, with his Jayhawks lagging by a whopping 40-22 at the half en route to the poorest finish since the 1961-62 Kansas team, shuffled his 12 players in and out looking for an effective combination. The two biggest KU players, sophomores Rick Suttle (6-9) and Danny Knight (6-10) did not see action after intermission.

"It is performance that counts," Owens said quietly after the game. "I've never heard of a team winning because it had potential."

Suttle, the league's No. 8 scorer with a 16.3 average, finished with only six points.

Next stop-New York

Big John Brown (50) hooks up a shot against Nebraska during Missouri University's final regular season game at Columbia Saturday afternoon. Brown is the all-time Mizzou scoring leader and will head MU into the National Invitational Basketball tournament Saturday in New York.

Wooden likes odds

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The UCLA Bruins begin throwing for "seven" this week and John Wooden likes the odds, as usual.

"My optimism going into the NCAA playoffs is about the same as last year—I wouldn't trade my chances with anyone," says the highly successful coach.

It will take more than a roll of the dice to beat the nation's top-ranked team. The Bruins have won six straight national titles and appear just as strong this year as in the past.

"We were down a little but we are coming back and getting sharp at just the right time," says Wooden, whose team currently has a record 71-game winning streak over 3½ seasons and has won 32 straight games in the NCAA Tournament.

With a first-round victory Saturday, Arizona State earned the dubious honor of meeting the mighty Bruins this Thursday in one of the West Regional semifinal games. The other matches Long Beach State against the University of San Francisco, champion in the West Coast Athletic Conference.

Like UCLA, winner of the Pacific-8 Conference, San Francisco drew a first-round bye. But there was plenty of action over the weekend—nine game from coast-to-coast.

In the West Regional, Western Athletic Conference champion Arizona State rounced Oklahoma City 103-78 and Long Beach, champion of the Pacific Coast Athletic Association, beat Big Sky winner Weber State 88-75.

In the Mideast, Marquette scored a 77-62 victory over Miami of Ohio, the Mid-American Conference champion, and Ohio Valley Conference winner Austin Peay nipped Jacksonville 77-75.

South Carolina eliminated Southwest Conference champion Texas Tech 78-70, and Southwestern Louisiana smothered Houston 102-89 in the Midwest Ragional.

In the East, Syracuse took an 83-32 decision over Furman, the top team in the Southern Conference; Ivy League champion Penn edged St. John's N.Y. 62-61, and Providence registered an 89-76 triumph over St. Joseph's, Pa., the winner in the Middle Atlantic Conference.

Saturday's results set up the pairings for Thursday's semifinals in the four regions.

In the Midwest at Houston, it's South Carolina against Missouri Valley Conference titlit Memphis State and Southwestern Louisiana vs. Kansas State.

In the Mideast at Nashville, Tenn., Marquette faces Big Ten champion Indiana and Austin Peay will play Kentucky, winner in the Southeastern Conference. The West Regional will be held at UCLA's Pauley Pavilion in Los Angeles.

Although drawing a bye in the first round of the playoffs, UCLA still had some work to do over the weekend. The Bruins wrapped up their regular Pacific-8 Conference season with a 76-56 victory over Southern California.

The Big Ten Conference and Atlantic Coast Conference also finished their seasons. Indiana notched an NCAA berth, winning the Big Ten with a 77-72 victory over Purdue while Minnesota was upset by Northwestern 79-74. North Carolina State tripped Maryland 76-74 in the ACC playoff finale. However, Maryland will represent the league in the NCAA playoffs because North C

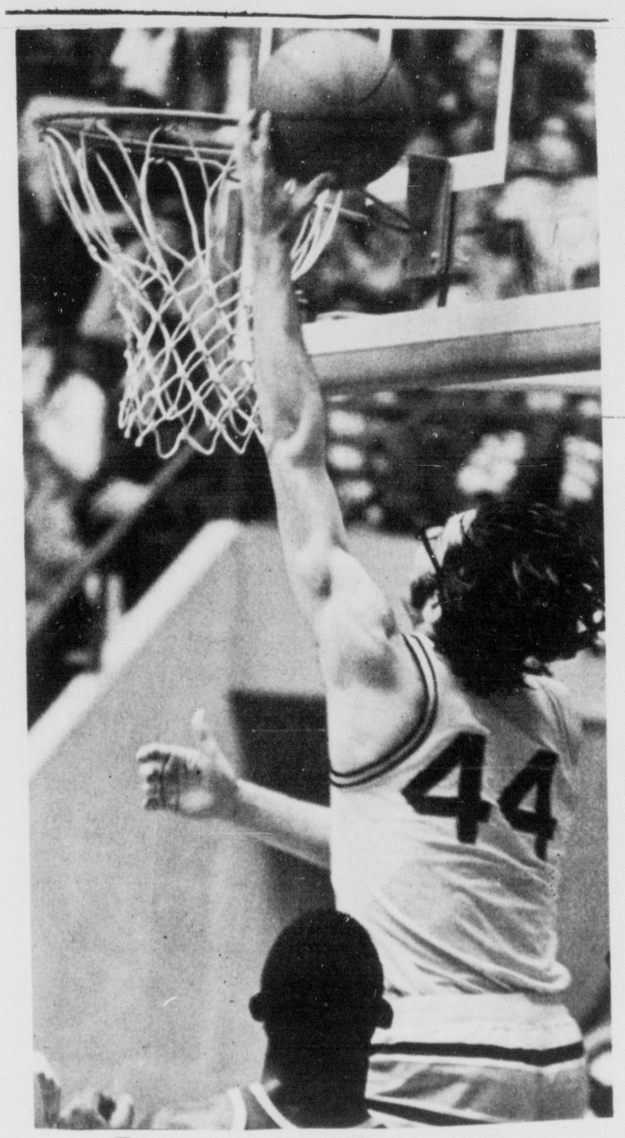
Kirkwood Number two!



Icing on the cake

This late game shot by DeSmet's Joe Stirmlinger (44) padded their lead over Kirkwood in the championship game of the class L state tournament at Columbia Saturday night.

COLUMBIA, Mo. — The Kirkwood Pioneers season long claim to being the number one basketball team in the state proved to be a false hood Saturday night as St. Louis DeSmet defeated them 51-47 in the championship game of the class L state tournament at Hearnes Multipurpose center before nearly 10,000 fans and a St. Louis television audience.

Kirkwood defeated Sikeston 73-55 in a first round game of the tournament at Hillsboro Monday night and boasted a 20 game winning streak along with a 27-1 season record and an early season 82-70 decision over the Spartans going into the title bout.

But the clutch play of big 6-foot-6 Jim Kennedy led the Trojans to their first state championship and shoved Kirkwood back into the bridesmaid role for the second year in a row and fourth time in the school's four years of state final appearances. Kennedy drilled in two free throws with less than a minute to go and then grabbed two key rebounds moments later to preserve the victory. The talented Trojan finished with a game high 15 points and 16 rebounds.

The Pioneers generally tough pressure defense was mastered by DeSmet who's own defense made the difference in the bout. Kirkwood was held to a below par 26.1 shooting average on the game and limited to only 17 points the second half after enjoying a 30-28 lead at intermission.

Sedalia Smith- Cotton rode the 28 points and 19 rebounds of big 6- foot- 8 Kim Anderson to a 68-62 conquest of Kansas City Paseo in the third place game.

DeSmet, in only its fourth year of varsity competition, avenged its early loss and posted a 28-5 record while extending its win streak to 10 games. Kirkwood finished at 27-2.

The title bout was close all the way and the game was tied 11 times and changed hands 12. The score was tied at 45-all with 2:31 remaining in the game. After DeSmet controlled the ball for almost one minute, Kennedy drove the lane, was fouled and converted both ends of the one- and - one foul situation.

Kirkwood missed twice at its end, Joe Stirmlinger downed two free tosses and after another Pioneer miss, Kennedy rebounded and drove the length of the floor for a short jumper that gave the Spartans a safe 51-45 lead 15 seconds from the end off the game.

Shane Cotner and Scott Schulte had 12 points each to lead Kirkwood's offense.

Sedalia shot off to a 23-10 lead in the first quarter against its Kansas City foe, built a 33-22 lead by halftime and had the Pirates down by 21 points in the third before the Pirates mounted a too-late rally.

Jim Sanders and Bud Seuers backed Anderson's leading effort with 19 and 13 point performances. Terry Blanks was almost a one man show for Paseo, baning in 24 points and picking off 20 rebounds.

BOISE, Idaho— Dennis E. Erickson, an all- around athlete at Boise State College, was killed in a traffic accident.

Willie Mays fined

Not to be outdone by the marital headlines of New York Yankee pitchers Fritz Peterson and Mike Kekich and their respective spouses last week, one of the New York Met wives made a little news over the weekend.

Mrs. Mae Mays received an expensive visit from husband Willie while the Mets, who are looking for a center fielder anyway, put out baseball's version of an APB for the AWOL Willie.

The Yankees' official policy was hands off the Peterson- Kekich hi- jinks. Mays wasn't so lucky, and Manager Yogi Berra slapped him with a fine estimated from $500 to $1,000 after the 41- year- old superstar missed connections on a flight back from his Atherton, Calif., home to the Mets' St. Petersburg, Fla., training camp and failed to show up for a Saturday work out.

"I made a mistake," Mays admitted after Berra socked him with the first major fine of his long career at a Sunday meeting. "He made his point and he was right. When I'm wrong, I'm wrong. I should have told him."

At first, Mays said his wife wasn't feeling well. Later, he amended his story, saying, "Mostly my wife's lonesome, but she'll join me next week."

At any rate, Mays' absence Saturday had the Mets sending a search party to his apartment a few miles from St. Petersburg. Asked why he hadn't phoned when his original flight back from California was canceled, Mays shrugged:

"I should have. It sounds silly, but I didn't know the number. I could have found it out, I agree, but I thought I could be back before anybody knew I was gone."

The Mets also had their problems on the field Sunday, bowing to the St. Louis Cardinals 5- 4 on an 11th- inning single by Luis Melendez after they wiped out a 40- deficit. Three of the Cards' runs came on a homer by rookie Ray Busse.

Elsewhere, the pitchers suddenly no longer were ahead of the hitters.

Mike Schmidt drove in six runs with a triple and grand slam homer, powering the Philadelphia Phillies to a 9- 7 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates 'B' squad. Bill Robinson socked a two- run homer after Schmidt's grand slam in the sixth inning.

Milwaukee's George Scott also had a six- FBI game with a pair of three- run homers in the Brewers' 12- 2 rout of the San Diego Padres. The Brewers also got home runs from Darrell Porter and John Vukovich.

Cliff Johnson's grand slam capped a time- breaking five- run uprising in the ninth inning as the Houston Astros out slugged the Minnesota Twins 10- 5. Doug Rader also connected for the Astros while the losers got consecutive homers in the seventh inning from Bobby Darwin and Danny Walton. In other games it was Montreal 11, Texas Rangers 2: Baltimore 10, New York Yankees 0: Detroit 13, Cincinnati 8: Los Angeles 6, Atlanta 3: Boston 6, Pittsburgh 'A' squad 1: Kansas City 4, Chicago White Sox 3: San Francisco 9, Cleveland 5: Cleveland 'B' team 5, Oakland 4: California Angels 8, Chicago Cubs 7.

Legislators face abortion bills

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Missouri legislators will face the abortion issue for the first time this session when a House committee begins consideration Tuesday night of five bills related to abortion.

Two of the bills would allow hospital personnel to refuse to participate in abortions. Another bill would outline procedures to be followed in performing abortions, which would be allowed up to three months after conception.

Missouri's present law says an abortion can be performed only to save the life of the mother.

Another controversial issue, a bill to reinstate the death penalty, is expected to be debated in the House this week. The Senate already has twice debated a death penalty bill without taking any action.

The House and Senate were to begin their 10th week at 4 p.m. today. No bills have yet passed both houses, although a Senate-passed bill on budgeting is ready for House debate.

Government reorganization and property tax relief for the elderly probably will occupy the Senate's time this week.

The Senate Ways and Means Committee has come up with a formula whereby a person over 65 would pay a property tax bill no greater than 4 per cent of his income. Only those persons earning less than $7,500 a year would qualify under the formula.

Property tax relief for the elderly was approved in the November election. The means of achieving tax relief was left up to the legislature.

The House spent most of its time last week debating statewide voter registration and it could come up again this week. No action has been taken. Missouri has 76 counties without mandatory registration.

Scheduled for committee consideration in the Senate this week are measures to set up a police training council (Monday night), and to make May 8, Harry S. Truman's birthday, a state holiday (Tuesday night).

A rewritten spending bill, trimmed to $16.2 million from the House's $18.7 million, is being printed and is expected to be ready for debate later in the week. The money will supplement the current fiscal year's spending budget.

Dogcatcher resigns

PORTAGEVILLE— Joe Simmons, dogcatcher for 11 years, resigned at Thursday's City Council meeting, according to City Clerk Raymond Secoy, who said no one has been appointed to fill the facancy.

An ordinance lowering the minimum age for candidates for the office of mayor from 30 to 25 years was signed by Mayor Roy Moore. The ordinance was proposed and approved at a February council meeing, but did not become effective until March 5.

The council discussed buying a new police car, but no action was taken until prices are checked with local car dealers.

In February of this year, it took five days for the Sikeston Post Office to deliver a card mailed at the post office to an address on West Gladys Street. The card traveled less than one and a half blocks a day.

But undoubtedly the champion in this category is the American railroad system, which, according to commuters, has not had a train run on time in over a century.

The staff of the newsroom here at The Daily Standard isn't much better. Last week I asked them to complile a list of things they would like to put off or things they'd had to do in the past that they wished they could have forgotten about. Not a single one of them gave me their lists, even though they promised to do it promptly.

But, of course, I really couldn't say anything. After all, they all told me, they'd "do it tomorrow."
